WILSON CONFERS OVER WIRES ON ANTI-ALIEN LEGISLATION

TELEGRAM SENT TO BRYAN IS SECRET

Hears From Secretary of State as to Sentiments of Solons in Sacramento

WOULD HAVE CALIFORNIA AWAIT CHANGE IN TREATY

Present Treaty Is But Temporary One Made to Bridge Over Former Difficulty

President Wilson is standing pat on the California anti-alien matter. He insists that the words
"incapable to citizenship" in the bill pending in the California legislature violates the treaty with Japan. This was the announcement at the White House following a cabinet meeting where Secretary Bryan's telegram was discussed. The President and cabinet decided that Bryan is handling the matter satisfactorily.

WASHINGTON, April 29.—President Wilson and John Bassett Moore, counselor of the state department, conferred from 7 to 10 o'clock today
on anti-alien legislation in California, telegrams from Secretary of State
Bryan being considered. President Wilson's answers to Secretary Bryan's messages were withheld from the public but it is understood the President attempted to answer all objections raised by the California legislature.

Counselor Moore refused to state the contents of a telegram dispatched to Secretary Bryan following the conference. The word has gone forth that any state department attaché airing even their personal views of the Japanese situation in California will incur the displeasure of the administration.

Secretary of State Bryan's proposition to the California legislature to suspend the passage and application of anti-alien legislation until President Wilson had an opportunity to negotiate a new treaty with Japan to replace the one of 1911, is believed to represent the ultimate concession which the administration is willing to make in deference to public feeling in California. The secretary's statement that in the event of the passage of legislation in defiance of the President's advice he would feel obliged to do everything possible to "minimize the ill feeling that may be aroused," is regarded here as marking the purpose on the part of the government to become an intervenor with the Japanese in any suit they may bring before the federal courts to nullify the action of the California legislature.

The existing treaty with Japan was intended to meet a temporary need in quieting the unrest on the Pacific coast school question. Neither party is satisfied with its workings. It has no provision for the requirement or holding of land by either Americans or Japanese, and no provision against discrimination. When Secretary Bryan started for California he was aware there was absolutely no treaty prohibition against such anti-alien action as the Californians now propose. The prospects for framing a new treaty satisfactory to both Californians, and Japanese are under consideration.

Recent Nominations
WASHINGTON, April 29.—President Wilson has nominated George E. Downey of Indiana to be comptroller of the treasury, succeeding Robert J. Tracewell, and Lewis T. Erwin to be United States marshal for the fourth district of Alaska.

Roosevelt Declines to Talk
NEW YORK, April 29.—Col. Roosevelt today flatly declined to discuss the anti-alien land situation in California.

EUCCHARISTIC PILGRIMS DELAYED; SAIL TODAY

VALETTA, Island of Malta, April 29.—The last of the 3,000 pilgrims and church dignitaries who attended the Twenty-fourth International Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic Church, left here today for Italy. Lack of sailing facilities prevented the entire delegation leaving yesterday as had been at first planned. The delegation which left today has arranged to meet those who left yesterday in Rome and

WORKS DEFENDS CALIFORNIA IN ANTI-ALIEN LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Defense of the stand taken by Governor Johnson and the California legislature on the anti-alien problem was voiced by Senator Works of California in the following statement issued today:
"Every state has a right to provide by law who shall own its land and to except aliens from this right and the national government has no right to enact any law or make any treaty either denying or impairing this right.
Governor Johnson and the California legislators are wholly within their rights when they insist on enacting an anti-alien land law whether it excludes the citizens of all nations or only one nation. If the government infringes on that right the state should not be bound to abide by its provisions."

DEMOCRATS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR TARIFF

So Says Underwood; Panama Tolls Controversy Goes Over to December Session

WASHINGTON, April 29.—During the tariff discussion in the House, Representative Underwood served notice to the Republican minority that the Democrats propose to dictate the tariff policy to congress and will stand responsible for the results. He said:
"It is our business to frame the bill.
We alone are responsible. We do not propose to let you Republicans write the bill."

President Wilson has arranged a conference on Thursday with western and southern senators opposed to free sugar and wool.

SECRETARY BRYAN SETS PRECEDENT

Serves Grape Juice Instead of Wine at State Banquet; Will Be His Custom

SACRAMENTO, April 29.—The grape juice served at Secretary of State Bryan's initial banquet to the foreign diplomatic corps at Washington was not an experiment, according to Secretary Bryan, who arrived here yesterday. It was a precedent, and for the next four years, or as long as Mr. Bryan shall continue as periodical host to the ambassadors, grape juice in its simplest form will be the only beverage at state dinners.
Secretary Bryan smiled when asked concerning the innovation.

"I do not consider it necessary to make a defense of my actions as host to the ambassadors," he said, "and I will not devote any time to answering the criticisms of those who do not agree with me. The incident is closed, and the customs may be considered established."

"When I became Secretary of State
at President Wilson's request, I told Mr. Wilson that I would not furnish wine at official banquets unless he directed me to do so. He told me to do as I saw fit, and we had a thorough understanding before I venture to make the change."

FRENCH AVIATOR FLIES
1000 MILES IN EUROPE
KOLLUM, Holland, April 29.—A flight of more than 1000 miles by aero-plane was completed here yesterday by the French aviator, Ernest Francois Guillaud.

He made only two stops during his flight from Biarritz, in the extreme southwest of France, which he left Sunday morning, and descended to replenish his fuel at Bordeaux and Villa-coublay.

The entire trip was made in a little more than twenty-two hours.

sions.
"On the other hand the President is within his rights when he endeavors to persuade the state to waive its rights and respect a treaty, but neither ours or a foreign government has a right to coerce a state. No self-respecting state would submit to coercion or dictation from either source. The American and Japanese governments may just as well understand once for all that the Japanese coming to California are extremely objectionable to our people and their permanent ownership of land will not longer be allowed. If any treaty is preventing the state from enacting alien laws, the government owes it to the state and country to abrogate that treaty."

GOVERNOR JOHNSON AND LEGISLATURE STAND PAT

Yesterday's Conferences Seem to Have Made No Change in Sentiment

SACRAMENTO, April 29.—Secretary Bryan today received a long cipher message from President Wilson regarding the anti-alien land situation. It is said the message contained further instructions in answer to the secretary's report on the legislature's attitude. Another executive conference between Secretary Bryan, Governor Johnson and the legislators is expected before night.

Secretary Bryan was greeted with heartily applause when he entered the senate chamber today and took a seat at the president's desk. He closely followed the proceedings of the session. Anti-alien legislation is marking time awaiting the pleasure of the Secretary, who is apparently awaiting further messages from Washington.

Two conferences were held yesterday, each lasting for over two hours.
The first occurred at noon and the second shortly after 4 o'clock. The result of the meeting seemed to be that some points obscure to Secretary Bryan had been cleared up, but there seemed to be little change in the attitude of the legislators or of Governor Johnson as to anti-alien land legislation.

Strong sentiment seems to have developed in support of dealing with the situation by enacting a law which shall prohibit all aliens except such nations as give to the citizens of this state full right to land ownership in those nations. Such a law would be general in its scope and could not possibly give any nation ground for criticism. Europeans would not be barred and no nation that refuses to allow citizens of this state to acquire property in its country can possibly complain if that right is denied to its subjects, especially as the matter would be on a basis of reciprocity.

Just before the adjournment of yesterday afternoon's meeting, Governor Johnson addressed the conference and defined clearly the position of the state administration. He declared that the point at issue was not whether any proposed legislation might give any foreign nation offense, but whether it might give just grounds for offense.

WORKMAN'S COMPENSATION BILL PASSED BY HOUSE
SACRAMENTO, April 29.—At 1:30 o'clock this morning, after a lengthy debate, the senate by a vote of 30 to 5 passed Boynton's workmen's compensation act. By a call of the house, many senators were dragged from bed to answer roll call. The bill now goes to the assembly.

Bryan at Cornerstone Ceremony
Secretary Bryan today laid the cornerstone of the Y. M. C. A. building.
Lieut.-Gov. Wallace presided at the ceremonies.

LORIMER AFTER SEAT IN SENATE
Organizes Machine With Hope
of Election Under Direct Vote of People

CHICAGO, April 29.—William Lorimer, who once held a seat in the United States Senate, and who was expelled on election bribery charges, will be a candidate for membership in that body two years hence. The next election of a senator will be a direct vote of the people. Anticipating the victory of the direct vote advocates, Mr. Lorimer and his lieutenants have been quietly organizing their forces and a concrete army of workers has been marshaled. The Lorimerites will make their first fight in the coming mayoralty campaign.

FIRE IN RENTON, WASH.
HOTEL FATAL TO TWO
RENTON, Wash., April 29.—Mrs.
Ioda Skillman, aged 30, and her five-year-old son were burned to death and William Canfield fatally burned in a fire destroying the Central hotel here. Twelve guests escaped.

hurst, the English suffragette, now in exile in Paris because of her militancy for the cause in England, today began a campaign to win converts in Gay Paris by lecturing in the Anglo-American colony here. Society leaders have taken her up either as a fad or because they are actually interested in the work of securing votes for women, and drawing room talks from today on will be one of Miss Pank-hurst's chief means of spreading propaganda.

NEWSBOY DROWNS AS

off, then also capsized. The

FIRE DESTROYS HOLT AVENUE HOUSE

Gasoline Stove Responsible for Loss of Structure and Its Contents

Nothing Saved—When Discovered Flames Enveloped Rear Part of House

This morning fire destroyed a five-room house and its contents on Peter Chum's place on Holt avenue, near East Seventeenth, Turin. The house was worth about $1000, this loss falling heavily upon the owner, Peter Chum of Smelter. The furniture loss falls on Peter Robinson, who with his wife and two daughters occupied the house.

Robinson has been living on the ten-acre place, taking care of it for the owner. This morning at 5 o'clock he rose, lighted the gasoline stove and went to the barn to feed his team. When he returned to the house smoke and flames were pouring from the kitchen and rear of the house, and quickly spread to the front. So fast was the progress made that there was no chance to save any of the contents.

It is not known how the fire started, possibly from an explosion of the gasoline stove. Mrs. Robinson, who was in bed in the front part of the house, heard no explosion. She became aware of the danger through the smelling of smoke and crackling of the flames.

Robinson carried $800 insurance on the furniture, which included a $500 piano.

GEN. OJEDA AND AIDES ARE RELEASED

U. S. Government But Set at

SAN DIEGO, April 29.—General Pedro Ojeda, the Mexican federal commander of the Northern Sonora federal forces defeated at Naco, was released by American troops on a Washington order, with twenty of his

Major William C. Davis pending further orders from the war department.

General Ojeda and staff were driven across the international boundary line near Naco, Arizona, a few weeks ago as refugees from the victorious Mexican rebels in Sonora. They were placed under arrest at Naco and released a short time afterward, then they received orders from their government to entrain for San Diego via Los Angeles and to take passage from there to Guaymas by way of Ensenada. The action of yesterday was unexpected by the Mexicans. No ex-

DIRECTORATE IS ELECTED

Apricot Growers Estimate that Their Crops Are Short of Last Year's

Affiliation With State Exchange
Was Favorably Acted Upon
Saturday

The Orange County Dried Fruit Association held its adjourned annual meeting at the city hall on Saturday afternoon and elected a board of directors for the coming year, consisting of A. H. Stutsman, W. A. Greenleaf, Harvey Ritzer, G. Berneike, D. C. Drake. The secretary read the reports of the business done during the two previous years, and these were received and filed. Printed copies will be mailed to those who were interested in the 1911 and 1912 crops. The announcement of the favorable sale of the 1913 crop of pits was received with much satisfaction by the members.

Those present were called upon to give an estimate of their crop. There were but few who believe that their crop will equal or exceed that of last year, while the majority claim a much smaller crop, some as low as one-fourth of last year's. It would appear that the average will not exceed 40 to 50 per cent of a normal crop, and this perhaps represents fairly the average of the county. Last year's tonnage was from 1000 to 1200 tons of dried apricots for Orange county. Since we may expect exceptionally fine fruit, we may figure on 500 to 600 tons this year if nothing further interferes with the development of the fruit. Whether the new acreage in apricots equals or exceeds the acreage cut out last year I am not yet informed upon. But I believe that we need not look for any increase in the crop from this source. By the way, the Ventura association proposes to send two growers through their county to estimate the crop later on. They realize the im-

The associations must do in this respect what the "outsiders" will not do, but of which they will eagerly take advantage.

The committee appointed to investigate the matter of affiliation with the California Dried Fruit Exchange made a favorable report, and the report was accepted and filed. After considerable and generally favorable discussion the board of directors was instructed to gain all further necessary information and, when ready to act, to call another meeting of the growers.

The new board will hold its first meeting next Monday at 2 o'clock, at the office of the association packing-house.

BOILING AN EGG.

If It Gives You Trouble You Might Try John Randolph's Way.

The boiling of an egg seems a simple matter, but many a breakfast has been spoiled and many a temper rased by the cook's failing to observe the precise number of minutes the process should occupy.

That very original man, John Randolph, is said to have invented a method of getting his eggs cooked exactly to his taste that worked perfectly. As is the case in many country homes in the south, the kitchen was in a separate building at some distance from the house, and servants were plenty.

When the "sage of Roanoke" took his seat at the breakfast table there was a line of servants from the dining room to the kitchen. Mrs. Randolph, the mother of the statesman, held an open watch in her hand.

"In!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph, and the word "in" was passed from mouth to mouth until it reached the waiting cook, who dropped the eggs into the water. After the requisite number of seconds the holder of the timepiece signified that the cooking was done. "Out!" went forth the command in like manner, and the eggs were quickly removed.

The system required six or seven servants to cook one egg, but Randolph was accustomed to declare that this was the only way that he could get it cooked to suit him.—Youth's Companion.

AN INGENIOUS CLOCK.

Curious Automaton That Was Made In London a Century Ago.

One of the most wonderful timekeepers known to horologists was made in London, England, a hundred years ago and was sent by the president of the East India company as a gift to the emperor of China. The case was made in the form of a chariot, in which was seated the figure of a woman.

This figure was of pure ivory and gold, and the right hand rested upon a tiny clock, fastened to the side of the chariot. Portions of the wheels which kept track of the flight of time were hidden in the body of a tiny bird, which had seemingly just alighted upon the woman's finger.

There was a canopy above, so arranged as to conceal a silver bell. The bell was fitted with a little hammer, also of silver, which, although it did not appear to have any connection with the clock, struck the hours regularly and could be made to repeat by touching a diamond on the woman's bodice.

In the chariot, at the woman's feet, there was a golden figure of a dog, and above were two birds, apparently flying before the chariot. This beautiful ornament was made almost entirely of gold and was elaborately adorned with precious stones.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Never Can Happen Again.

The Montenegrin law which ordains that any found valuable shall be placed where the loser can find it reminds one of an anecdote told of Grimaldi's grandfather in Dickens' life of the famous clown. On one of his visits to Leadenhall market with nearly £400 in gold and silver upon him "he found that his shoe had become unbuckled and, taking from his pocket the bag, he placed it upon a neighboring post and then proceeded to adjust his buckle." Having afterward to pay for a purchase, he missed his bag of gold and hurried back to the post where he had buckled his shoe. "Although more than three-quarters of an hour had elapsed, . . . there it remained, safe and untouched, on the top of a post in the open street!" That was in eighteenth century London. Could it happen now?—London Chronicle.

A Curious Coincidence.

The story of a queer coincidence was told by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. While traveling upon the continent he visited a certain mountain inn, which was in winter, he learned, occupied only by two men. These men, prisoner in a waste of snow and ice, had for all that period no communication with the world below. Here was a situation for a novelist! And the novelist accordingly began to let his imagination play about the possibilities of tragedy surrounding the two men on their mountain height. But the story was never written, for, happening to come upon a volume of Guy de Maupassant, which was new to him, he found therein, under the title of "L'Auberge," the very story he had meant to write.

NEGOTIATING A SETTLEMENT

The P. E. Condemnation Suit Against Dr. Medlock May Not Come to Trial

Answer Has Not Been Filed by Attorneys Who Represent the Defendant

Negotiations are under way between the Pacific Electric and Attorneys Williams & Ruten for the settlement of the condemnation suit brought against Dr. J. R. Medlock for a right-of-way across a corner of his twenty-acre walnut orchard on North Main street. It is entirely possible that the case will be adjusted out of court this week. Again, negotiations may fall through and the matter be determined in the superior court.

As yet the action is not ready for setting for trial. Attorneys Williams & Ruten for the defendant have not yet filed an answer, and until that is filed the case is not at issue.

The P. E. has all the remainder of the right-of-way for its extension to Orange. The Orange right-of-way committee has completed its work, and everything along the line has been adjusted except the strip across the Medlock orchard.

Just what offer has been made Dr. Medlock is not known. It is probably somewhere between $3000 and $5000.

WILL REPRODUCE A CHINESE TOWER

Famous Oriental Landmark to Be Duplicated as an Exposition Feature

Local Chinese Granted Concession Say They Will Expend $100,000

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—Willow Tower, one of the landmarks of China, situated a short distance from Shanghai, is to be reproduced in the concessions section of the 1915 international exposition by leading Chinese merchants who have been granted the concession for a tea garden, restaurant, Chinese theater and the sale of souvenirs and articles of an oriental character.

It is to be known as "The Pagoda." Jim Wong and Fung Ming, two prominent residents, have been granted this concession. They declare that $100,000 will be spent in the building and its equipment.

The concessions committee, of which M. H. de Young is chairman, has set aside a space 85 by 250 feet close to the Grand Canyon concession of the Santa Fe railroad.

To build 70 houses of moderate size there would be required just a little less timber than there is already in the machinery building, the largest of the exhibit palaces now being erected at Harbor View for the Panama-Pacific international exposition.

Although the giant structure is only one-fifth completed in its wooden framework, 750,000 feet of lumber has been used. From now on, in order to complete the building on the time called for by contract, 283,000 feet of timber will have to be put in place in the building each week. During the week ending April 19 the amount of timber added to the structure was 280,000 feet.

At this stage of the construction of machinery hall, 400 tons of steel have been used in the form of bolts, bars and structural shapes. The heaviest column in the building will weigh 28 tons; the heaviest truss, 10 tons. The total length of the building will be about 1000 feet, the width about 400 feet. Three north and south peaks will be 116 feet high and 102 feet in the clear. Three east and west peaks will be 134 feet high and 120 feet in the clear.

At present there are 418 men employed on machinery hall. This includes 203 carpenters, 165 laborers, 38 steel and iron workers, 8 pile drivers and 4 locomotive drivers.

AUTO WAS WRECKED AT CYPRESS STATION

Mrs. John Feagan Jumped Just in Time to Escape Being Caught in the Crash

Artesia News: What would probably have been a fatal accident for Mrs. John Feagan, had it not been for her presence of mind and quick action, occurred Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock at Cypress station. Mrs. Feagan was driving her new Studebaker car alone across the P. E. tracks at Cypress station, when she noticed a milk car backing down upon her. A collision being certain she leaped from the car just in time to escape injury. The milk car struck the front end of the machine, dragging it several feet and smashing it all to pieces.

GLASS IS PECULIAR.

It Has a Number of Curious and Contradictory Qualities.

Glass is one of the most interesting as well as one of the most peculiar things in the world. It has curious and contradictory qualities, and many astonishing phenomena are connected with it. Brittle and breakable as it is, yet it exceeds almost all other bodies in elasticity.

If two glass balls are made to strike each other at a given force the recoil, by virtue of their elasticity, will be nearly equal to their original impetus. Connected with its brittleness are some very singular facts. Take a hollow sphere with a hole and stop the hole with the finger, so as to prevent the external and internal air from communicating, and the sphere will fly to pieces by the mere heat of the hand. Vessels made of glass that have been suddenly cooled possess the curious property of being able to resist hard blows given to them from without, but will be instantly shattered by a small particle of flint dropped into their cavities. This property seems to depend upon the comparative thickness of the bottom; the thicker the bottom is the more certainty of breakage by this experiment. Some of these vessels, it is stated, have resisted the stroke of a mallet given with sufficient force to drive a nail into wood, and heavy bodies, such as iron, bits of wood, Jasper, stone, etc., have been cast into them from a height of two or three feet without any effect, yet a fragment of flint not larger than a pea dropped from a height of three inches has made them fly.

ELIZA WAS GENEROUS.

Her Munificent Offer For an Original Five Act Tragedy.

People are likely to look back com-miseratingly upon the past in these days of modern progress. When we hear what the most prolific of present day novelists receives a word and what the weekly royalties of any well known playwrights are we say that the literary profession has come into its own. Some hark back to the contrasting tale—that Milton received only 15 for the first copyright of "Paradise Lost," an epic in twelve books containing a total of 10,555 lines, but that was over two centuries ago. Poe received $10 for "The Raven." That may be dismissed with the statement that poetry never paid.

The modern way of making money by literature is even more recent than is generally thought. Alexander Hill of Cincinnati, one of the best known bookmen and collectors of the middle west, has a letter in his collection of autographs that proves this point.

Two generations ago Eliza Logan was a leading actress in America. Read her letter, O budding genius on the typewriter, and be glad that when you are paid it is space rates for the local paper:

Tremont House, Boston, May 17, 1834. E. Duessault, Jr., Charlestown, Mass. Sir—I wish an original five act tragedy—the feature to be a heroine, myself the personator of it; the scene not to be laid in this country; the plot to be optional with the author—for which, if I like it, I will pay $5. Respectfully, ELIZA LOGAN.

American Leaf Colors.

It has been observed that the leaves of American trees, such as maples, scarlet oaks and so forth, which at home exhibit splendid colors in the autumn, fall below their reputation in this regard when transplanted in England or on the continent of Europe. An English observer, who has been studying the causes of the autumn tints of trees, thinks the superiority of our woodlands arises from the soft and mild yet glowing climatic conditions prevailing here in the fall. England, it is added, is rarely blessed with an Indian summer. When the climatic conditions permit the leaves to retain considerable vitality in the autumn the colored pigment is normally developed; hence the glorious forests of the United States.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Regulating Price of Books.

The price of books was once a matter for legislation in England. An act of 1534, which seems never to have been repealed, provides that any complaint regarding the price of books should be considered by "the lord chamberlain, the lord treasurer and the justices or any two of these," and that those dignitaries should have "power and authority to reform and redress the enhancing of the prices of printed books and to limit the prices of the books and the offenders should lose and forfeit for every book by them sold whereof the price be enhanced the sum of 3s. 6d."—London Mail.

She Didn't Do It.

The family far waxed fiercer. "You talk about my being to blame for our marrying," shrilly exclaimed Mrs. Vick-Senn. "John Henry, did I hunt you out and then make love to you?"

"No!" he snorted. "But you could have given me the glassy eye and sent me about my business, and you didn't do it, madam—you didn't do it!"—Chicago Tribune.

Capital Punishment.

"Mamma, did you love to flirt when you were young?"
"I am afraid I did, dear."
"And were you ever punished for it, mamma?"
"Cruelly, dear. I married your father."—Paris Rire.

The hours we pass with happy prospects in view are more pleasing than those crowned with fruition.—Goldsmith.

EDDIE FOY AND CHORUS IN "OVER THE RIVER."

EXTRA-ORDINARY FEATURES IN THIS SHOW, SAYS ULM

"I saw the show in Los Angeles," said Manager N. A. Ulm of the Grand Opera House, Santa Ana, tonight, "and I found that it has some of the best features I have seen on the stage in many a day. Everybody knows Eddie Foy is funny, just about the funniest man on the American stage today. His seven children are remarkably cute. Their work brings down the house. There are three athletic girl dancers in stunts that beat anything I ever saw. Those girls do some extraordinary dancing acrobatics, better than you see put on at a circus by acrobats. There are three beautiful scenes. This show has a great reputation. It is the best thing I have coming here for some time."

In order to get this musical comedy, Manager Ulm gave a big guarantee to the "Over the River" management. It is the kind of a show that will not go to any place on chance. It has to know that it is going to get its money. Ulm considers it well worth the guarantee.

SIR CECIL RICE AT DIPLOMATIC POST

Assumes Duties as England's Ambassador at Capital;
Likes U. S. Athletics

WASHINGTON, April 29.—Cecil Arthur Spring Rice, the new British ambassador, took up his duties this morning in Washington. He saw his predecessor, Hon. James Bryce, off at New York yesterday on his voyage around the world. In a New York interview Sir Cecil refused to talk of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty and other topics he wished to avoid, but diplomatically said:

"I would like to tell you how much I admire your athletics. I came here from Stockholm (and he has been envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Sweden since 1908) and I was much impressed with the victories of your splendid American teams. I am sure your methods of training and the discipline will be a standard for the other nations in future games."

Sir Cecil likes baseball and it seems probable that he will become a fan during his stay in this country.

AMUSEMENTS

The appearance of that inimitable comedian, Eddie Foy, and his Seven Little Foys, in his new musical play, "Over the River," promises a night of rare good fun when the star appears with his big company at the Grand Opera House tonight. It is said that all former productions built around the comic abilities of this popular humorist have been surpassed by Werba and Luescher who now have Eddie Foy under their management. The company is one of the largest on the road and includes in addition to the large chorus and ballet, the famous "Berlin Madcaps" an octet of dancers and singers imported from the Winter Garden in Berlin.

"Over the River" is a musical comedy and has fifteen musical numbers each brimming with dash and sparkle. The book and music are typically modern. The songs have a "catchy" swing that made them whistling favorites during Mr. Foy's long New York engagement. The cast includes a number of well-known entertainers especially engaged for the famous "cabaret" scene, the first introduced in an American production.

Bell Theatre
Thirty performing Australian cockatoos was the vaudeville attraction at the Bell last night and this great bird act will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night. In addition there will be four reels of pictures, including those of the Dayton flood disaster, which in itself is worth the price of admission.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

The fast approaching deciduous fruit season was heralded yesterday by the arrival of several boxes of cherries from the north. This fruit should soon be received in large quantities. The outlook is for a good crop this season, although it will be rather short of the normal output. The fruit received yesterday brought 25 cents a pound. Early peaches and apricots are due to arrive in the not far distant future.

Apple receipts were reported large. The trade is active. The fruit has long been one of the chief centers of interest on the market. Some excellent loquats are received and meet with a good demand. Oranges, lemons and grapefruit continue at high prices.

A considerable quantity of off-grade northern cabbage was received, and after being stripped of its outer leaves, brought around 1 cent a pound. The market continues well stocked with onions. There has been no material change in prices, however. Receipts are increasing owing to the growing supply of Bermudas, silverskins, and others. Australian Browns are comparatively steady. Large quantities of new potatoes are received. The market is easy. An upward tendency is apparent in the market on northern highlands. It is hardly likely that a pronounced advance will occur, as receipts are too large. Asparagus was abundant. The market showed weakness in some quarters. There was some fancy green stock at 7 cents a pound. The white variety is not as plentiful as it was a few weeks ago, but is cheap. Rhubarb is still received from the north. No important price changes occurred. Tomatoes are about clean up, as are also bell peppers, egg plant, etc. Wax beans bring around 20 to 25 cents a pound. Several sacks are now received daily from Imperial Valley and regions in that vicinity.

Extra butter was up 1 cent, probably owing to a firmer market in the north. A car sold for delivery before July 1 at 1 cent below the present market. Cheese was steady. Receipts were light. There was no particular change in the egg market, except that ePtaluma extras were up a little.

Coughs and Consumption
Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living today." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50c and $1.00. Recommended by all druggists.—Advertisement.

GREAT EUCHARIST CONGRESS ENDS SESSION OF WEEK

VALETTA, Island of Malta, April 29.—Yesterday witnessed the departure from this city of the greater part of the 3,000 church dignitaries and pilgrims who attended the twenty-fourth Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic church during the past week. Special steamers were engaged to convey the pilgrims to Italian ports. Later, a majority of the pilgrims, including a large number of Americans, will reunite at Rome where they hope to be received at the Vatican. Previous to departure this morning a final pilgrimage was made to the shrine in the Grotto of Saint Paul.

THE BACK YARD

A Boston man once remarked that you could always tell the difference between a New Yorker and one of his own townsmen by the way they blacked their boots. The New Yorker blacked them all around, while the Boston man never touched the heels, seemingly thinking that no one ever looked at him from behind. Whether or not the criticism was just to Boston, it fairly hits the ideas of most people about their back yards. When the race for elaborate and angular houses was at its height a few years ago, someone remarked that the popular house fronts were of the Queen Ann style, while the rear with its garbage pails and ash heaps was Mary Ann.

Most people who live in individual houses keep their front yards in pretty good condition nowadays, just as most people wash their faces and comb their hair. But their feeling about the back yard is like the Boston man and his boots.

In a country village or settled suburban district, the back yard is almost as conspicuous as the front. No matter how many geraniums and hydrangeas you put next the sidewalk, if you have ash barrels, garbage pails and unsightly chicken coops at the rear, the whole place wears an air of frayed decadence.

Years ago, when high tight fences were the rule, a man was king over his own domains. If he preferred to be a sloven, no one was offended except such neighbors as looked out of the second story windows. But now that the modern American town is taking down its fences and turning itself into a park, one tousled back yard throws its blot of frowns over a whole neighborhood, discouraging neatness and impairing real estate values.

WE'LL WELCOME HIM

It is plain to be seen that Mayor Brand Whitlock of Toledo is headed for Southern California. Hear him anathematize the spring weather of the "Great Lakes" region, in the American Magazine:

"As I think of it there come back the recollections of those raw spring nights; we held our municipal elections in the spring in those days, that is, spring as we know it in the region of the Great Lakes. It is not so much spring as it is a final summing-up and recapitulation of winter, a coda to a monstrous meteorological concerto as doleful as the allegro lamentoso of Tschaiikovsky's Sixth Symphony. There is nowhere in the world, so far as I know, or care to know, such an abominable manifestation of the meanness of nature; it is meaner than the meanness of human nature, entailing a perpetual bending to gusts of snow that is rain, or a rain that is ice, with an east wind that blows continually off Lake Erie for two months, with little stinging barbs of ice on its breath—and then, suddenly, it is summer without any gentle airs at all to introduce its heat."

J. P. MORGAN AND THE ULTIMATE CONSUMER

Ida M. Tarbell reports "The Hunt for a Money Trust," in the May American Magazine. She was present at many of the hearings of the Pujo Committee in Washington. At one stage of the proceedings Samuel Untermyer, the government's lawyer, was examining J. P. Morgan about the relation of the voting trust to the price of coal. Mr. Untermyer said to Mr. Morgan, "Has the price of coal increased to the consumer?" "That said Mr. Morgan, 'I do not know anything about it.' Miss Tarbell comments as follows on this piece of testimony:

"It was in his apparent ignorance of the relation between the great enterprises he conducted with such simple and magnificent self-confidence, and the man who buys his coal by the basketful, who must pinch for a year to buy a harvesting machine, that the foundation of the popular mistrust of his power lies. Mr. Morgan with his consciousness of ability, his undoubted sense of responsibility towards those who dealt with him, had like many of his time, little or no sense of a personage with whom the rich and powerful must at last deal fairly or fall, and that is the 'ultimate consumer.'"

A BIG ADVERTISING STUNT

The Elks' Minstrel Scream (supplement to the Register) is a documentary, prima facie, and all other kinds of evidence of the hustling qualities and literary attainments and popularity of the "Hello Bill" boys.

This fourteen-page section is entirely the work of the minstrels committee. The space in it is bought and paid for and filed by them. They assume an responsibility and are entitled to all credit.

It is really a fourteen-page advertisement of the Elks' Minstrels in co-operation with the live and liberal business men of Santa Ana and Orange county, and in that respect breaks all records of this county in the way of big advertisements.

In addition to the Register's circulation of over 3200, the committee has had printed enough extras of this fourteen-page section to give it a circulation of 6000 copies—truly a big advertising stunt for all concerned.

Flashes From Gay Paris

By William Phillip Simms, Paris Correspondent of the United Press

PARIS, April 29.—"In less than ten years the Atlantic ocean will be spanned by an aeroplane, and more than that, the crossing will be accomplished in less than a day." Such was the astounding prediction made by Count de Lambert, the French nobleman who was Wilbur Wright's first pupil and the third passenger ever taken up in a heavier-than-air machine. Count de Lambert is one of the most conservative of the world's airmen. His disposition is not unlike that of the Wright brothers who taught him how to fly. He weighs well his words before speaking. His interest in aviation is three-fold: As a sportsman, as a French patriot, and as a scientist. What he says, therefore, is the studied opinion of a practical man.

"I believe," said Count de Lambert, "that within ten years the sea will be traversed from the British Isles to the United States or vice versa, by a hydroaeroplane, and between sunrise and sunset at that. There are two difficulties which must be overcome. One is that one must be able to keep one's course, the other is to keep from being wrecked by the waves in case a landing in the water is necessary. Of course, one would steer by a compass, but one would drift without being conscious of it if the wind came from a contrary direction.

"Today, no machine could cross without stopping enroute. And two days would be necessary for the trip. But with a better fuel than petrol, or a more efficient motor than any we have at present, I believe the journey could be made in one day. I am sure these will be found, also an aeroplane with less wind resistance. In the meantime I consider the feat of crossing the ocean, in such hydroaeroplanes as we have now perfectly practicable. With a little luck, two days of good weather, and not too high a wind—unless the wind were at one's back—the trip could be made. Two engines would probably be used. The Gnome 14-cylinder engine, for example, is so made that seven cylinders can be used at a time. Also there would be probably two pilots. One could easily enough lie down and sleep, or rest, while the other was driving."

Count de Lambert is the inventor of the hydroaeroplane, or "glider" which is now the fastest kind of motor boat known. He is not in the game for the money but is simply a "gentleman aviator."

Anna Held, the French-American actress who sings songs about not being able to make her eyes behave and "I wonder what's ze matter wif my eyes," is taking the "rest cure" in Paris. America is far too lively for her, she says; it's too busy, too everything, for one to get a good, quiet rest, so she has come here. Incidentally, the actress has found time to deliver a lecture at the Marigny Theatre on "The Chic American." She declares she did not wish to deliver this lecture, but did so for two reasons. The first is she wished to oblige certain theatrical friends of hers, and secondly to correct certain impressions regarding Americans which French people erroneously entertain.

"The American woman is the most independent of creatures," she declared. "And she is one of the most elegant. She absolutely refuses to follow styles blindly simply because it is the style, yet she is above all things stylish. She mixes style and brains admirably. Tall, short, young, old, you can distinguish an American woman among a million others anywhere."

Futurism and Cubism and all the rest of the "isms" have been laid in the shade by a new school of art entitled "Orphism." An "orphist" artist thus explains his craft: "Look at this cubist canvas. What do you see? Why, a lot of paving stones, bricks, nursery blocks and what-nots. Isn't it so? And now glance at this futurist picture. After studying it for a few minutes you can find something which resembles an ear, a big toe, a worm or a fallen tree. The cubist calls his canvas 'The Nude Lady,' and the futurist names his picture, 'Venice by Moonlight.' But all that is mere child's play.

"Look at this canvas. What do you see? Nothing. That's the point exactly. It is even devoid of color. It is not white, not black, nor yet blue, green, red or brown. It is nearly khaki, but it isn't khaki. It's blank—just plain blank. It requires great skill to mix the paints to get that effect and still greater skill to see what the picture represents when it is finished. Only the real artists, the connoisseurs with the trained eye, can name the subject. I call it 'Stamboul' now, but tomorrow—and there's the beauty of this very newest school of art—tomorrow, perhaps, I shall call it 'Gaby Deslys.' However, I may think of a better name overnight so I will not promise now what the name will be in twenty-four hours."

Lieutenant Manard, an army aviator, will be one of a party of scientists who will sail from a French port in June or July bound for the South Pole. The aviator will carry aeroplanes and will attempt meteorological, astronomical and physical observations in the vicinity of the South Pole. He may make a dash for the Pole if he finds the intense cold does not too much affect the working of the engine.

OLD SHIP IS UNEARTHED IN STREET OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 29.—The hull of an old ship was unearthed yesterday afternoon forty feet under the street at fifteenth street and Tenth avenue by workmen digging a foundation for a new building.

The old hull, which apparently had been burned, was fully a block from the waterfront. One explanation advanced was that years ago the water extended that far up.

The hull at one time was a good-sized fishing schooner. The dirt will be dug off the deck and the hull raised.

MISSIONARY SISTERHOOD

Mission Circles of All Churches in City to Have All-Day Meeting—Good Program

The Missionary Sisterhood is a union organization of all the Mission Circles in all the churches of Santa Ana. It was organized in April, 1912, in the First Presbyterian Church with the following officers: President, Mrs. F. J. Rogers; vice-president, Mrs. J. A. Stevenson; recording secretary, Mrs. S. P. Hamilton; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Scott; literature secretary, Mrs. E. J. Foster.

Its objects are to enlarge our knowledge of missionary work; to enkindle greater interest and enthusiasm by mutual conferences; to stimulate a spirit of liberal and systematic giving for the support of missions; to promote mutual sympathy, and to enlist the interest of the young people in extending the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ.

This Sisterhood will hold the annual all-day meeting Wednesday, April 30, at the First Methodist Church, Spurgeon and Sixth streets. They extend the warmest kind of an invitation to all the women, old and young, the interested and especially to the NOT-interested.

Each person is asked to take a box luncheon. The entertaining church will furnish coffee and equipment. It is believed no one can afford to miss the inspiration of such a gathering of the excellent program prepared by the executive committee. The music will be in charge of the Christian Church women. PANAMA PACIFIC FAIR SEEKS CONSTRUCTION WORK RECORD

Plan Finish of all Buildings and Every Detail of Fair at Least Two Months
Before Opening

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—Locat ed on a site of unique natural beauty, the structures of the Panama-Pacific exposition to be held in San Francisco in 1915, are well on their way toward completion today. The view afforded from the fair grounds is unsurpassed. From the Service building, which already is completed, a wonderful panorama unfolds itself. Directly in the foreground is the incomparable Golden Gate and the blue waters of the Pacific; to the left the eternal hills, topped by the green-capped peaks of Mount Tamalpais; to the right the rolling Berkeley hills with the cities of Berkeley and Richmond lying beneath.

More than 1,000 men today are working on Machinery hall, the largest of the exhibit palaces. It will cover an area of approximately nine acres. By July, every one of the fourteen great buildings will be well under way in construction and 7,000 men will be working on them. This number is exclusive of those who will be employed in the other two sections of the exposition, which will be devoted to concessions and foreign and state pavilions.

Harris D. H. Connick, director of works of the exposition, declared today that it is the aim of those in charge of the affair to set a new record in exposition construction. "At previous American expositions," said Connick, "it has been the rule that the exposition has been postponed a year from the original date set for the formal opening, or visitors have found construction and installation incomplete with an army of workmen busy. This naturally detracts from the beauty of what should be a finished exposition. All buildings here will be fully completed eight months before the opening date and all the exhibits will have been installed. The grounds will have been terraced and planted with shrubbery and trees when the formal opening takes place. Grading, levelling and excavating and the installation of the sewer and water supply systems already have been completed, and every detail of the exposition will have been perfected at least two months before the opening on Saturday, February 20, 1915."

More than 1,600,000 cubic yards of earth have been filled in on the center portion of the site, which occupies 100 acres, and which will be devoted to the fourteen main exhibition palaces. Twenty-eight of the world powers have thus far early signified their intention to participate and many others are preparing to take part on an elaborate scale. Of the thirty-three states of the union that have promised to participate, twenty-six have selected the sites for their pavilions. New York has made a preliminary appropriation of $700,000 for the New York state building. California will spend $1,000,000 on her state building. Other appropriations from different states which have selected their sites vary from $250,000 to half a million dollars.

The exposition officials say there are two great reasons why California is making great effort to "break all records of all expositions." The first is that California and San Francisco especially realizes the titanic achievement which the occasion is to celebrate, and they wish to make the celebration in keeping with the building of the Panama canal. The second great reason why Californians are so anxious to show the nation and the world what Californians can accomplish, say the officials, is the memory of desolation which reigned in the city of San Francisco following the earthquake seven years ago and their desire to show to the world what California and San Francisco can accomplish in the face of such a calamity in that short length of time. To realize this the world's greatest sculptors and architects have been secured, with Carl Bitter at the head of the former, Jules Guerin has charge of the color plan and John C. MacLaren, who constructed the famous Golden Gate Park, has charge of floral decorations.

One of the great features of the exposition will be the National Boy City, with a population of 15,000 boys. More than $1,000,000 is to be spent on this city. Two great commercial organizations, which spend vast sums in developing the efficiency of boys throughout the United States are behind the National Boy City project.

The boys, the pick of the nation's youth, will be during the period the exposition is on, members of a model settlement, the watchword of which will be "Achievement." Already the machinery for executing the plan has been set in motion and lads all over the country are fitting themselves to participate in the contests in 436 congressional districts of the United States to win the coveted privilege of being one of the representatives of his home section at the National Boy City. These boys will be chosen in competitive examinations. Twenty-five per cent will be allowed for educational qualifications; 25 per cent for moral character; 25 per cent for physical development; and 25 per cent for musical. All their expenses to and from San Francisco will be paid, and there will be no expenses attached to their remaining during the time the exposition is there. Every precaution against disease or hurt will be made by the exposition authorities, a staff of physicians having been already engaged to look after the health of the boys.

It will be not all play for these boy-citizens by any means. The lads will install and conduct their own government and visitors will be given a chance to see citizenship in the making.

"Always Air"

ALWAYS AIR is a fluid compound, a small quantity of which, when placed in the inner tube of a pneumatic tire will instantly, automatically and permanently stop all punctures from the smallest to the size of a 20-penny spike.

IT IS NOT A TIRE FILLER

It is not only inexpensive but adds 50 per cent. to the service of tires. It will not injure rubber. It is not affected in its operation by heat or cold. It will not harden, gum, dry up or deteriorate. It will not stick the inner tube to the casing. It cannot come into contact with the casing. It can be changed from one tube to another. It will last for years. It adds practically no weight to the tire (only about three pounds to the largest tire.) It fills only a small portion of the inner tube, and the pneumatic quality of the tire is retained.

After picking up a nail in the road, you will always run at least a block and generally a much longer distance on a flat tire. This shortens the life of the casing at least 50 per cent, sometimes ruins it immediately. After having tires treated with our fluid you may remove nails at once or never remove them, and in either case there is no leakage of air.

SENTENCE TO

Santiago Banderas Gets Minimum Penalty; Good Record Distinct Advantage

Samuel Kraemer Suing E. Walter Pyne for Taking Possession of Property

This morning Santiago Banderas was sentenced to a term of five years in San Quentin on a charge brought by a 15-year-old girl, Tomasa Canales. Banderas' good record and his lack of understanding of the laws of this country helped secure for him the minimum sentence of five years. Judge West stated that those who arrive here from Mexico should be informed of the seriousness of the offense with which Banderas stood charged. Several residents of Westminster took the witness stand and testified that Banderas had an excellent record as a worker and was considered honest. The offense to which Banderas pleaded guilty was committed on September 14, 1912.

Possession Suit

Samuel Kraemer, Placentia millionaire, has brought suit for $200 damages and possession of 2.18 acres of land at Yorba. F. Walter Pyne, a rancher of Yorba, is named as the defendant in the complaint, which was filed today by Attorneys Williams & Rutan. The complaint states that on April 18 Pyne entered upon 2.18 acres belonging to Kraemer, took possession and tore down Kraemer's fences. Kraemer asks for a judgment of $200 damages.

For Guardianship

O. E. Campbell has asked the superior court to appoint H. E. Smith guardian of the estate of the petitioner's daughter, Myrtle Ora Campbell. The estate consists of $500 insurance to be paid by the Maccabees on a policy that was taken out by the girl's mother. W. H. Thomas is attorney for the petitioner.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

TRIAL BEFORE

Westminster Poolroom Keeper Denies that His Place Was Open After Midnight

Louis Savallo is almost certain, in fact, quite certain that he did not keep his poolroom at Westminster open after midnight on the night of April 20. Savallo is so certain of his innocence that he expects to be able to convince a jury of that fact. He has employed Leon Wells, who sometimes practices law in the justice's court at Huntington Beach and once in awhile in the justice's court here though he has not yet been admitted to the bar to help him convince the jury that a verdict of not guilty is the only verdict a jury ought to bring in a case such as Savallo has fallen heir to.

Constable Clark of Westminster is the star witness in the trial. Clark has a watch that keeps good time, and Clark himself was present upon a street at Westminster at 11 a. m. and saw that Savallo's place was open. One o'clock a. m. is just one hour later than the hour set by ordinance for the closing of poolrooms in this county outside incorporated cities. Under Sheriff Law and one or two other officers are to be witnesses. They raided the poolroom about 1:30 a. m., and found a number of men playing cards in a room adjoining it.

The destinies of Savallo rest with twelve men selected this morning. Those twelve men are Guy Cunningham, F. F. Farnsworth, J. W. Flagg, S. G. Shoemaker, C. R. Munson, A. C. Patterson, E. A. Clardy, R. Williams, S. Baker, Silas Wright, D. McKeith and J. H. Cockran.

Wants a Trial

A. Battista of Delhi, charged with disturbing the peace by lambasting his family around, wants a real trial with all the trimmings, which includes a jury. His case has been set for May 12. Battista has employed Attorney Clyde Bishop to do his best for him. Battista got out today on $100 bail after several days' deliberation spent at the county jail.

WORK BEGINS ON TWO GUNBOATS AT MARE ISLAND YARD

VALLEJO, Cal., April 29.—Preliminary work on the United States gunboats Monocacy and Palos was started Monday when their keels were laid at the Mare Island navy yard. The boats will cost $242,000 each. They are destined for the China service. They must be finished by September. The navy yard has determined to establish a record for speedy construction.

FOUND FRISON SUIT BUT THE CONVICT HAD FLOWN

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., April 29.—Warden Hoyle called in all the guards yesterday who have been searching the hills of Marin county for Charles Fitz Bauer, a convict forger, who escaped yesterday noon in the best clothes of Sergeant Murray, a guard. In the laundry under the office of Warden Hoyle was found today a prison suit, and the driver of the stage told how he had taken to the Greenbrae station a man resembling Bauer, and dressed in a suit like Murray's, who took the 12:30 o'clock train for San Francisco. That seemed to point a clear path.

Bauer was serving three years for forging a check on the Bank of Italy, of San Francisco. Friends visited him Saturday, the regular "visitors' day. Evidently they gave him money, or he could not have bought a ticket.

City Trustees Gave Permit to Mrs. Clayton, But Quickly Withdrew It

ORANGE, April 29.—The City Trustees received a visit and a dressing-down to a fare-you-well last night from Mrs. W. H. H. Clayton, who has issued a number of special editions on the political situation at Orange as viewed by her. Last night she went before the council and asked for permission to chip a hole in the brand new pavement that has been laid on North Glassell street. Mrs. Clayton was very specific in her request and statement. She said that she believed that the street had not been laid according to specifications, though she evidently had no doubt that the size of her bill was fully up to specifications. Her bill for paving is now around $1500. The ordinary 50-foot lot out on North Glassell also has a bill around $204 to meet for paving.

Mrs. Clayton took advantage of the occasion for a by-the-way speech, and the way she went after the City Trustees was far from slow, and is reported to have been exceedingly interesting.

The City Trustees said they had no objections to Mrs. Clayton being allowed the privilege of cutting a hole in the pavement to see what it was like. Her permit was granted.

Mrs. Clayton went home. The City Trustees got to thinking the matter over, and the more they thought the hotter under the collar they became. They did not like the way Mrs. Clayton had talked, and they straightway rescinded the permit that they had given.

Death to Plaza Dealer

A brand new kind of a license ordinance has been designed and will be passed by the City Trustees. It is an ordinance aimed to prevent real estate agents from talking real estate in the Plaza. The ordinance fixes the license at $50 a month, for soliciting real estate deals in the Plaza. It is said the real estate dealers who have no offices have over-run the Plaza of late, and a stranger has an awful time sitting down and taking a quiet rest.

Ends at Glassell

The P. E. has abandoned its franchise on South Glassell street, and hereafter the dummy will stop at the corner of La Veta and Glassell streets. It may be some months yet before the proposed electric line is in operation, but the City Trustees wanted South Glassell street cleared of the tracks right away so that it can be paved.

ANNIVERSARY
CELEBRATED

Pleasant Social Affair Given at Anaheim by Mr. and Mrs. Kroeger

ANAHEIM, April 29.—One of the most delightful social events of the season took place last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kroeger, on East Center street, when they celebrated their "wooden wedding," the fifth anniversary of their marriage. Their beautiful home was ablaze with light from attic to cellar, and the interior was artistically decorated with roses of all colors and varieties, until each spacious room looked a veritable rose bower. The early part of the evening was spent at cards, progressive five hundred being played at eight tables. Several prizes were awarded as follows: First and second ladies to Mrs. Matter and Mrs. Wisner, respectively; consolation, Mrs. Erickson; gentlemen's first and second to Mr. Nowotny and Mr. Pomeroy, Sr.; consolation to Mr. Erickson. At half past eleven a sumptuous repast was served at which time Mr. and Mrs. Kroeger's friends pleasantly surprised them by presenting them a beautiful porch chair. After lunch several excellent musical selections were enjoyed. At a late hour all went to their homes, declaring it a perfect evening and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Kroeger many more happy wedding anniversaries. The guests were Messrs. and Mesdames A. Erickson, Alvin Nowotny, Pomeroy, Sr., Pomeroy, Jr., Clark, Brunworth, Herman Schindler, Matter, Fischle, Henry Kroeger, William Kroeger, Mesdames Schindler and Wisner; Messrs. Ed Schindler, Ida Matter; Messrs. Albert Brunworth, Otmer, E. P. Staats, Henry Kroeger, Sr.

How Moose Jaw Got Its Name.

Moose Jaw is a strange name for a city, and it may be of interest to know how such a name was given. Some fifty years ago, so the story goes, a pioneer with his team of oxen and "prairie schooner," while passing along the banks of the river, was obliged to camp at this point, in Saskatchewan, on account of an accident to his cart as a spoke had fallen out during the day, and the wheel was falling apart. He looked around for something to insert for a temporary brace for the wheel, while his wife busied herself with the evening meal. The pioneer's child, while romping around, found the jawbone of a moose, which she held up to her father, who by this time almost despaired of finding something with which to mend his wagon, and was delighted to find that the jawbone exactly fitted the place of the missing spoke. The Indians thereafter named this part of the river "The Place Where the White Man Found the Moose Jaw." This accounts for the town's unforgettable name—London Standard.

An Extensive Shave.

When Salmon P. Chase was a school-boy at Worthington, O., he was one day left at home with orders to kill and dress a pig while Bishop Chase and most of the older members of the family were gone. In telling of this experience he wrote in an old letter: "I had no trouble in catching and slaughtering a fat young porker. I had the tub of water all ready for plunging him in, preparatory to taking off his bristles. Unfortunately, however, the water was too hot, or perhaps when I soured the pig I kept him in too long. At any rate, when I undertook to remove the bristles I couldn't start one of them. They were set! But that pig had to be dressed. I bethought me of my cousin's razor—a new one, just purchased by that spruce young clergyman. No sooner said than done! I got the razor and shaved the pig from tail to snout."

This is undoubtedly one of the most extensive shaves on record.

What Rules the World.

Many years ago John Brougham, Lester Wallace, Artemus Ward and others used to meet after the play at Windhurst's, in Park row, in New York. One night the question, "What rules the world?" arose, and various opinions were expressed. William Ross Wallace, who was present, retired before long and some time later called Thomas J. Leigh from the room and handed to him a poem which he had just written. Mr. Leigh read it aloud to the company, and Mr. Brougham made a happy little speech of acknowledgment. The thing was entitled "What Rules the World," and the first stanza ran:

They say that man is mighty,
He governs land and sea,
He wields a mighty scepter
O'er lesser powers that be,
But a mightier power and stronger
Man from his throne has hurled,
And the hand that rocks the cradle
Is the hand that rules the world.

The Greatest Attraction of the Season—Two Evenings of Unadulterated Fun

Two jolly evenings of fun and laughter, when the worries and cares of every day life will be cast aside and for a time be forgotten, that is what is in store for those who attend the Elks Minstrel show on Thursday and Friday, May 1st and 2nd.

Everyone enjoys a minstrel performance, and why? Because it comprehends in its "make up" nothing but pure, unadulterated fun combined with melody, and this is more strikingly so when the personnel of the cast is drawn from among those whom we know in the everyday walks of life; and through jokes and funny sayings have their distinctions of local color.

Remember two things—the cause you will be benefiting by gracing the performance with your presence, and the receipts with your dollar, and that the stoical scheme of supplying your wants by lopping off your desires, is like cutting off your feet when you want shoes.

A word about the director, Mr. G.
T. Wilson. He is a graduate of a musical conservatory and a school of elocution and he has had over 15 years experience in directing standard plays, operas and minstrel shows. He has already demonstrated to us in rehearsals his ability as an actor, singer and director. He carries with him over eight hundred dollars worth of scen-

The Elk

The Elk, one of our most interesting animals, is found in all parts of the United States. Though commonly considered as wild, it has become partially domesticated. It gives a strange cry when accosted, which sounds very much like, "Hello, Bill!" Elks are often found roaming about at night, usually in small droves. Their principal food is Welsh rarebit and club sandwiches. After feeding, they sometimes stampede. Their bellows can be heard for miles on these occasions. The Elk is a brave animal, except in the presence of its mate, when it becomes very quiet. It has often been known to lie still for a long time; in fact, some Elks began to lie when they first met their mates and are lying still. Elks have beautiful teeth—which, by the way, are their principal charms. The Elk has a strong constitution and can go for a long time without water; in fact, it is said that some of them never drink water. The Elks are protected by the government, and it is unlawful to shoot them. Of course the Domesticated Elk —of which there are hundreds of thousands in the United States—is possessor of most of the virtues of bumanity and no more than an average of humanity's vices. He is Benevolent, Protective, a friend of Order, and by virtue of these characteristics is known with his brothers among the Best People on Earth.

—Carleton G. Garretson, in Judge.

DON'TS—AT THE MINSTRELS

Don't throw eggs or vegetables at the performers—it's not dignified, and they'll be too busy to catch them.

Don't snore; you may disturb some one else in the audience who is taking a nap.

Don't grunt or groan; try to look like you were enjoying yourself for once in your life, even though you are not.

Don't hiss the actors; it discourages them, and besides, if you do, Sam Jernigan will hang his club over your ear.

Don't shout, or people will think you are from Watts and someone might soak you.

Don't put your feet over the seat in front of you; that's indecorous and may give offense.

Don't hang around the stage door—
they're not real girls, anyway.

Don't pay over $13.00 for a bouquet,
the actors don't expect it.

Don't go out between acts; there are others who would like to chew a clove, and it makes them restless when you go out.

you to return the ninety-three cents we paid you, or for you to take the

A word in conclusion about the men under whose Ogis this performance and benefit is being gotten up. The Order of Elks stands for good fellowship, and why? Because its members have thought in their hearts for others besides themselves; because they love to look on the cheerful side of life with the purpose of making themselves and others happy. This does not mean that they are insensible to the misfortunes that bestrew the pathway of human affairs. On the contrary
"The heart that is soonest awake to the flowers,
Is always the first to be touched by the thorns."

Come out next Thursday and Friday

kind, to all our faults a little blind."

Lodge History Shows How Elks Worked for Upbuilding of Order

And it came to pass in the good old summer time of the year of grace 1902, that three lonely Elks grazed in and about the city of Santa Ana, in the county of Orange, State of California. The members of this lonesome trio were W. L. Tubbs, H. B. Keeler and H. S. Tubbs, and they said to one another: "Behold, the woods are full of good material for a lively herd of Elks; let us round 'em up." No sooner said than done, and in a short time the original three had a charter list of forty-seven names, and were ready to apply to the Grand Exalted Ruler for a dispensation to institute a lodge in Santa Ana.

The Dispensation.

The book of the law provides that an application for a dispensation must be signed by three Elks; but it came about that there was delay in granting a demit to Brother H. B. Keeler by San Diego lodge, so he could not sign the application, and Brother C. M. Brown of Riverside lodge came to the rescue and became one of the applicants. The dispensation was granted on June 9th, 1902, by Grand Exalted Ruler C. E. Pickett, on the application of H. S. Tubbs, W. L. Tubbs and C. M. Brown.

Institution

On the evening of July 14th, 1902, Santa Ana Lodge, No. 794, of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was instituted by Riverside Lodge, No. 643, at Spurgeon Hall, Santa Ana. The following are the names of the charter members:

W. L. Tubbs, J. P. Greely, Fred A. Ross, Parke S. Roper, E. S. Wallace, V. M. Bishop, H. B. Keeler, Geo. A. Edgar, P. R. Reynolds, James D. Wilder, W. H. McClain, R. Utley, E. M. Robinson, F. S. McKnight, Clyde Walker, F. P. Nickey, Linn L. Shaw, E. L. Huffman, R. A. Cushman, W. A. Huff, Ben E. Turner, Frank Vesely, Edgar B. McKnight, Chas. H. Olney, J. W. Driver, Wm. F. Lutz, Earl Ottot, John W. Tubbs, Geo. E. Peters, M. M. Johnson, A. H. Lyon, J. H. Porter, J. W. Ballard, A. C. Bowers, Herman Harris, G. E. Preble, V. V. Tubbs, J. D. Thomas, J. H. Lucas, Perry Lewis, K. E. Watson, Wm. McCulloch, M. Phillips, Geo. E. Peters, R. S. Smith, H. C. Dawes, J. P. Boyd.

parade were published in the leading papers and magazines throughout the country. By active and original boosting at various grand lodge sessions it has placed Orange county on the map of the United States. And always it has lived up to the precepts of the order by dispensing charity without ostentation.

Exalted Rulers

The names of those who have been Exalted Rulers of the Lodge in the order of their election are as follows: W. L. Tubbs, J. D. Wilder, Charles H. Olney, H. C. Head, A. J. Klunk, H. G. Ames, Parke S. Roper, Fred A. Ross, George H. Dobson, J. Howard Turner, Marshall L. Keeler and William F. Menton.

For a short time after it was instituted the lodge met in McPadden's Hall; then it secured a lease on the hall adjoining Spurgeon's hall, which it occupied until the completion of the Hervey block on East Fourth street, in which it fitted up comfortable club rooms and lodge rooms. This continued to be the home of the lodge for about seven years. But with its continual increase in numbers, the lodge soon felt the need of more room and more comfortable quarters, and the desire grew strong to have a permanent abiding place—a home of its own.

Work of Building Committee

In September, 1907, the lodge bought and paid for a fifty-foot lot adjoining the City Library on Sycamore street as a site for a lodge home.

On June 9th, 1908, the following were appointed by the lodge as a building committee: Geo. E. Peters, H. T. Rutherford, J. D. Thomas, H. W. McCulloch, V. V. Tubbs, H. C. Head, W. A. Huff, Fred A. Ross and Parke S. Roper. The committee organized by electing H. C. Head as chairman; H. T. Rutherford, treasurer; and Parke S. Roper, secretary.

This committee was given full power to act and was instructed to proceed to build a home for Santa Ana Lodge. About the first thing it did was to decide that the lodge did not have ground enough to accommodate a suitable building, and to cause the purchase of twenty-five feet additional frontage on Sycamore street. Then the committee

Wilder, Esteemed Leading Knight; R. A. Cushman, Esteemed Loyal Knight; J. P. Greely, Esteemed Lecturing Knight; W. H. McClain, Secretary; J. R. Porter, Treasurer; Perry Lewis, Tyler. The officers were installed by District Deputy F. P. Meserve, Bro. Stanley Brown acting as Esquire.

The Baby Thrives

That was the beginning. From its genesis to the present moment Santa Ana Lodge of Elks has been a very lively bunch of the antlered herd. It has grown in numbers continually and now has nearly four hundred members, with applications coming in faster than ever. It has gone on many pleasant pilgrimages and excursions; it has given minstrel shows, and other kinds of entertainments, and its social functions and entertainments have been notably successful. It took a prominent part in the meeting of the Grand Lodge in Los Angeles during July, 1909—so prominent and original that pictures of its stunt in the grand devoted its time for some months to the subject of finances.

Plans for Building

When financial arrangements had progressed sufficiently for the building committee to feel sure that a building could be erected, Architect C. B. Bradshaw was employed to prepare plans and specifications for the building, upon a floor plan prepared by V. V. Tubbs and revised by the committee. After numerous meetings, consultations and revisions, the plans were agreed upon by the committee and submitted to the lodge and adopted.

Upon the opening of bids for the construction of the building, Brother George E. Preble was awarded the contract, his bid being $25,001. Subsequent additions and alterations brought the total cost of the building to about $30,000.00.

Breaking Ground

On the evening of June 14th, 1910, the members of the lodge met at Elks' Hall and formed a procession, each

With appropriate exercises, including an eloquent address by Brother Clyde Bishop, the stars and stripes were raised upon the site, and ground was formally broken for the building.

Hopes Realized

On March 14th, 1911, the lodge moved into its handsome new home, the occasion being fittingly celebrated, and here they have enjoyed two very prosperous years and have bright prospects for great future growth.

COL. BUTMAN AND THE ELKS SEXTETTE

Col. W. C. Butman, special representative of the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Co. of Los Angeles, has been making Santa Ana his headquarters for the past few weeks. He is a great booster not only for his company, but for Southern California in general, but above all he is never too busy to boost for the Elks Lodge.

During the rehearsals for the Elks' Minstrels he has taken a very active interest in making it a success and while he is not in the cast, he has stood guard over the club rooms during every rehearsal to see that none of the herd of performing Elks escape.

He has been dubbed "The Gibraltar" by the boys in the cast, with whom he is extremely popular, and from time to time many little pleasantries are handed back and forth.

After the rehearsal one evening Col. Butman was unusually complimentary. "Say, boys," said he, "I'll bet that sextette singing would sure sound swell on the water."

"Why so, Colonel?" delightedly inquired a member of that all-star half dozen.

"Because it sounds so bum on land," was the Colonel's laconic reply.

CLARE BUCHANAN

District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Parke S. Roper

In the selection of one of its members for District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler for Southern California, Santa Ana Lodge 794, has been signally honored. The appointment of Brother Parke S. Roper to this high office was made following the election of the present Grand Exalted Ruler and when the fact is taken into consideration that in this district there are two large cities and a number of other cities of larger population than Santa Ana, the honor is all the more noteworthy. The appointment of Brother Roper is largely due to his personal popularity in the lodge, for it is doubtful if there is an Elk in the district that is held in higher esteem, and there certainly is none that takes a greater interest in the good of the order.

In his official capacity, Brother Roper has visited every lodge in his district and usually on these visits, he has been accompanied by a goodly delegation of members of the local lodge. And, as a mark of the high esteem in which he is held by his home lodge and in honor of the high office he holds, a series of entertainments have been given here during the past winter, to which the various lodges of the district have in turn been invited. All of which has served incidentally to keep Santa Ana lodge very much in the limelight.

We don't give any premiums, as our paper is at a premium; nor do we give away any pianos or dictionaries. Our readers are intelligent enough to read the Scream without a dictionary and all subscribers who go to hear C. M. McCamey sing in the Minstrels auto have enough music without a piano.

OUR "BOUGH"

Today The SCREAM makes its courtesy to the great American people, likewise to any and all other people. This is some considerable bowing to undertake, but, as we have the "right bower" and "left bower" up our sleeve we ought to get off with it. Right at the start we wish to remark that—while some may think this paper funny, to us it is no joke. No, sir; this getting-up-a-paper is about as serious a proposition as trying to touch an acquaintance for a loan, or asking the landlord to wait till next month for the rent. But this paper has a duty to perform, and the performance of that duty will be performed. From one end of the whole universe to the other; from San-Juan-by-the-Sea to Anaheim-Buy-the-Beer, from the coyote-howling jungles of Olinda to the flea-infested sands of Balboa, it is our duty to spread the news of the Elks' Minstrel Show.

That's our excuse for being in existence, and you'll all have to admit it's a plenty good and sufficient excuse, when you see the show—which, of course, nearly everybody will.

If you've never learned how to laugh, now's your chance; if you've got a lot of lines and wrinkles in your mug that you want wiped out, now's the time to do it; if you're so grouchy that a shepherd dog (the best-natured animal known, barring the Elk) couldn't get along with you, peaceably, now's your chance to reform. Come to the Elks' big Minstrel Show and learn how to let out a big, hearty laugh, and you'll then see the world from a brighter angle and will go home wondering what you'd always found to worry about.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS

The Scream don't want to make a whole lot of noise about it, but right here and now we wish to state that its circulation is larger than any other paper printed in this "neck of the woods" and don't you forget it. Today's issue was 6000 copies full count and no monkey business, and if there is any competitor or advertiser that doubts it, just let him get up on his hind legs and say so, then see how he'll be landed on at the Elks Minstrel show May 1st and 2nd. We're peaceable and are not looking for trouble but think it is only fair to state that we go armed. Every statement made in this paper is strictly facts. We pride ourselves on our ability ity to tell the truth most all of the time and we'd tell it oftener if it wasn't so hard to think of the blamed stuff.

This paper is published to inform, instruct and amuse, make glad and mad the various members mentioned herein, to raise revenue for the Elks lodge and to boost the Elks Minstrels and the merchants of Orange county.

Our circulation books are private property and we refuse to show them unless ordered to do so by the grand jury, Judge Cox or other constituted authority.

All grammatical errors, typographical bulls, misspelled words, wrong hunches and lies that have crept in inadvertently will be corrected in our next issue, if there is any.

If anybody thinks we have cribbed his stuff and not given him credit, all we can do is to ask "what are you going to do about it?"

OUR ROGUES' GALLERY

The boys have dubbed it the "Rogues' Gallery," but just the same they are pleased with the scheme recently adopted of having a new photo of every member of the lodge placed in a frame provided for that purpose, in the Elks' club rooms. Already there are nearly a hundred who have responded to the call to have their "mugs struck," and these now adorn the wall in the card room. When each of the something near four hundred members has come through with a photo-portfolio of himself, it will make a collection that the lodge may well be proud of.

Members are reminded that Photographer Boyd is the official "shadow-snatcher," and is making a picture of each member, free of charge. If you haven't "got" for yours, get busy.

WE THANK YOU

The committee having in charge the getting up of the Elks' Minstrel SCREAM takes this opportunity of thanking those who so generously assisted in soliciting advertising and preparing "copy." On behalf of Santa Ana Lodge, No. 794, B. P. O. E., we also wish to thank the advertisers for their ready and liberal response. They came through like thoroughbreds, which is in itself sufficient reason why they should have the patronage of every member of the lodge, as well as the public in general.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Owing to the fact that there was a heavy fog this morning the Western Union wires are down again and we are unable to get any press dispatches, thus greatly curtailing our news service. The important information about the child lost in the storm was received by wireless.

On account of W. S. McVey being indisposed and the subsequent sold-up of the mail and non-arrival of the Los Angeles papers our telegraph news, in common with our contemporaries, is taken from yesterday's papers.

EDITOR WANTS TO KNOW

The editor of the Sullivan, Mo., News is quite concerned as to what the ladies' apparel consists of at present and rises to remark:

Little girl, you look so small,
Don't you wear no clothes at all?
Don't you wear no shimmy shirt
Don't you wear no petty skirt.
Just your corsets and your hose—
Are those all your underclothes?
Little girl, when on the street
You appear to be all feet.
With your dress so very tight
You are an awful sight.
Nothing on to keep you warm;
Crazy just to show your form.
Little girl, you won't live long,
Just because you dress all wrong.
Can't you wear more underclothes
Than your corset and your hose?
After while, I do believe,
You will dress like mother Eve.

BOOST!

It will be a great show.

The show will be worthy of your support, so don't hold back until it is over and then think of what you might have done. Reserved seats, $1.00.

DO YOU KNOW the difference between a sample and a model? No? I'll tell you a little story that will illustrate the point. A few days ago Brighty Johnson said to his wife: "My dear, don't you think I am a model husband?" She answered: "Well I guess you 'are. Do you know what a model is?" "Brighty" said: "Well, I ought to, I proof read it every day." "Well," she said, "a model is a small edition of the real thing." That is the difference between our model and our sample shoes. Our samples ARE the real thing. Come in and let us convince you of that fact.

THE AFTERPIECE

The Great Kidnaping and Breach of Promise Case CHARACTERS

Judge Wisehead, eminent limb of the law W. C. Jerome Gillfillan, officer C. M. McCamey
Lawyer Fuzzyboy, for the plaintiff. F. M. Price Lawyer Snapcash, for the defendant. Clyde Bishop Abijah Pippins, defendant C. T. Johnson
Mrs. Leonora Trustley, plaintiff. W. F. Menton Amelia Bedelia Arrowroot, witness Lester Carden Jury
Levy Hockheimer, Hebrew merchant Jack Cope
Mrs. Dr. Anasthetic Pullen, a new woman J. E. Livesey
Vanderbilt Persimmons, a colored barber J. C. Burke Gottlieb Wurstmacher, a butcher Sam Jernigan Hooligan, tough and tousley Clare Buchanan
Footlight McGuff, a standard actor H. A. Gardner

THE FARCE

The San Pedro Daily Press has the following to say of this farce:

"The afterpiece was a combination of a criminal action and a civil suit brought in a kangaroo court presided over in a dignified manner by Judge Gary C. Burke. An aged gent was charged with kidnaping a buxom miss and carrying her four miles in his arms.

"Mr. Burke as Judge Wisehead presided in style and used his mallet or gavel with much frequency. Frank Pressly was the Irish court bailiff and looked the part. Frank Stephens as Lawyer Fussy showed plainly that he had missed his calling and should have entered the legal profession. His appeal to the hearts of the jurors was pathetic as he was the aside to his client, 'Weep, sob like the devil, now's the time.' Ed Furst as Lawyer Snapcash was not a sympathetic lawyer. He appealed entirely to the cold and calculating portion of the jury and flung around legal terms such as 'usis semper tarantulus hemstitched overalls,' in a way that overawed and demoralized the court. He was eloquent, too, there is no gainsaying the fact.

"Mr. Sheets in the role of the much-abused widow lady was great. She so far forgot herself as to pull a powder puff out of her stocking while the court was in session and the audience gave the fact away. J. A. Parsons as Amelia Bedelia Arrowroot, a witness for the plaintiff, Mrs. Trustley-Sheets, made a graceful and charming figure and was a success on the witness stand. If the Standard Oil magnates had seen her there is no question her service would have been hired instantly.

"The jury was a nondescript one, very. There was (Barton) Braumie as Levi Hockheimer, a Jew with an eye to business. He was kept busy trying to make sales. He was suspicious of the lawyers as could be seen by the way he hid his wares whenever they approached him.

"Frank Venable as the new woman, was active in keeping the jury in order. Mr. Venable was an attractive female and several of the court seemed anxious for a kiss. Paul Tice was a colored barber who shook dice and gambled on the side.

"John Berg was a German butcher. He was realistic in appearance and acting and talking broken English just as if he was born to it. Reuben Fuler as Hooligan looked the part and acted it well. Harry Bard was a stranded actor. His frequent bubbling over marked him as a real track walker—barnstormer professional.

"The chorus showed itself trained to perfection and Mr. Wolson, the leader and the man who organized the show, must be blamed for the fact that there was not a hitch in the performance. In fact in some of the combined orchestra and chorus numbers the results were so harmonious as to make the listeners wonder that such a thing could be possible considering the short time devoted to practice."

HEALTH AND BEAUTY HINTS

By Chas. S. Kelley.

Jane—Your blood is out of order and the warts on your map are probably caused by torpedo liver. Get from your butcher a walrus liver and fry in axle grease. To this add one teacup of sand and mix with a whisk broom. Use a curling iron and swallow whole. This will give you a new liver and is an excellent remedy for catarrh of the feet also. Take a painful one minute before each meal and you won't be able to eat. When a new liver is built you can raff off the old one. Oh, you, Jane.

Sue—Eczema is frequently caused by eating soup with a knife. Wearing your shoes in bed or inhaling breath brings about this affliction. A good remedy is made by mixing four ounces of dynamite with an elephant's lung and one pint of ink. When dissolved let soak through a horse blanket and rub on the itching surface with sandpaper until the face is smooth. If your hands are covered with eczema, soak them in dishwater after each meal.

Have you reserved your seats for the Elks Minstrels? If not, why not?

This is Tambo Montgomery singing "Lead Me to That Beautiful Band." Happy as usual, you see.

The Grand Opera House, Thursday and Friday nights, May 1 and 2, will be a scene of brilliancy, scintillating with pretty music, good dancing and witty local takeoffs.

Fred Ross is busy burning cork so that he can improve his complexion and Lester Carden is buying "bloom of youth" to put on his cheeks and is constantly posing before a mirror practicing so that the ladies in the audience will rave over his graceful curves.

The fierce animals comprising this nerve-racking, laughter-releasing, death-defying, rib-tickling aggregation are so well trained that they jump through a loop and eat out of your hand, and Director Wilson guarantees that they will deliver the goods. They are being fed only once a day, so that they will be eager for the fray when the curtain goes up. It will be worth the price of admission to hear Bill Menton say in a tear-stained voice, "He bid me good night at the door and went aw-a-y," in the afterpiece, "The Great Kidnaping and Breach of Promise Case."

Seriously speaking, the boys have a great show this year. All the acts, jokes, songs and equipment are new and different and nothing will be overlooked to make the show a financial, artistic and social success.

Answer—Forget it.

Dear Doc:

What's good for floating kidney?

—A. W. Rutan.

Answer—Anchor it.

Dear Doc:

What will prevent dandruff from falling on my coat collar?

—E. L. Madden.

Answer—Cut the collar off.

John King (Mayor of Newport).—You say you are only 35 years old. Then you do not require spectacles. All you need to do is to make an eye-wash by dissolving two pounds of chlorgrease in a tub of water and wash your neck with the solution once a month. This will cause the eyes to grow bright and shed a peculiar lustre which will attract the women to you. It will also aid you in seeing trouble ahead, so that you may avoid it.

Dr. Burlew—Dear Doctor: Some weeks ago you sent me a plaster to get rid of the rheumatism and it did the work. Now I would like for you to send me something to get rid of the plaster.—Sid Smithwick.

Oh, Doctor: What will cure Hal McCullough? Answer—Marriage.

It was too much for the long suffering city officials, and with the fire hose they soon subdued him. They all expect to be present next Thursday night and see real Leonora, one of the prettiest in the cast.

DUCK MULLIGAN—This is a secret recipe and is understood to require forty-seven ingredients, but a member of the Tule Gun Club has divulged that it usually contains some duck and may also include opinions, potatoes, pine cones, skunk cabbage, red peppers, broom corn, bitumen, beer, bran, okum and assorted leaves.

BEEFSTEAK A LA BURKE—Take a good beefsteak, wallop around on top of a hot stove, season and serve on a barrel.

WATER A LA McCAMEY—Take four drops of San Juan Hot Springs Water Company's best water, add one gallon of Bourbon and take as rapidly as possible.

The following is a menu for a light midnight lunch as suggested by Bob Cavanaugh:

Two dozen oysters on the half shell
One-half broiled live lobster
One dozen crawfish
Sausage, potato saute
Welch Rarebit
Coffee
Liquids as needed

This will be found of great benefit in cases of insomnia.

The following tried recipe is submitted by Largo Boyce. He has tried it and ought to know:

MOCK HAM AND EGGS—Place der vite of a newspaper in der frying pan and cover der center mit an Italian Sunset picked fresh from a magazine picture. Dis forms der egg and tastes very realistic. Be sure to get a fresh newspaper and a fresh magazine, otherwise the imitation egg will be dull and insipid. Now add a few slices of picked linoleum and fry carefully for twenty minutes. Serve hot mit imitation salt and pepper on der side. Dis is a daylight dish because der sunset effect is lost if cooked after dark.

Don't cry; you'll laugh soon.

ANAHEIM SCREAMS

F. C. Spencer, Editor

Deac Vail of Orangethorpe is negotiating with us on putting bituminous paving on the Sand Wash. This paving is guaranteed to settle the dust and a good thick coat with a water binder will greatly benefit the stench from the Sugar Factory.

There's a bum bunch of Elks in Anaheim. All they do is to sing, "Smile, Simply Smile," and all they've been talking about for the past week has been the Elks' Minstrels, and they have displayed more energy than they have ever hitherto shown in futile endeavors to borrow money to attend the show next Thursday and Friday nights.

Bird Beebe's sorrel mare's tail was sheared by some scallawag last Sunday while tied in front of the church. The poor brute seemed to realize her pitiable condition.

Henry Adams busted his suspenders last week and sense then Henry ain't wore no suspenders. You'd naturally wonder how Henry manages to keep his trousers on himself, which he does by wearin' a siringle; but Henry says it ain't much of a success, because he has to wear it so tight that it makes him feel that he is foundered.

J. S. Perry says his left hand monkey wrenches will open champagne bottles, lobster cans or back doors, and he recommends them for use to all hangers on at the Elks' Home.

Pete Nicolas, of the Orange County Wine Co., says that he will trade Dry Goods for Wet Goods and that he will cut prices on over-ripe vegetables and ancient hen fruit to all those wishing to attend the Elks' Big Show in Santa Ana.

SCREAMS IN RHYME

We are in sweet accord with Edgar A. Guest, in his poem entitled, "Laughin' Along." It runs like this: Jes' laughin' along.

Through the heat of the day,
With a sigh for the wrong,
That I see on the way,
But a smile for the true
And a song for the sweet,
And a glad howdy-do
For the friends that I meet.

Jes' laughin' along.

To the evening of rest,
Though I'm not very strong,
Still, I'm doing my best;
An' I'm bearin' my cares
Without whinin' or frettin',
Givin' thanks in my prayers
For the joys that I'm gettin'.

Jes' laughin' along.

Findin' joy in the roses,
The lilt of the song,
An' the rest when day closes,
With sad hours for weepin',
An' glad hours for play;
Contentedly keepin'
In step on the way.

THE BUSY HUSBAND

By Berton Braley.
Now, for heaven's sake be quiet
While I call my better half,
For she'd surely raise a riot
If she heard you fellows laugh—
Give me twenty-three-o-seven,
That you, dear? Well, this is Ned.
I'll be down here till eleven;
Don't sit up. Just go to bed.

Maybe 'twill be even longer.

Awful busy! (Quit that din!
How can I make this much stronger
If you guys keep buttin' in?)
What's that racket? (Stow it, stow it!)
Oh, that's just the office boys.
You'll be lonesome. Yes, I know it.
(Say, you yahoos, quit that noise.)

Yes, dear, I will come as early
As they'll let me. Yes, you bet,
But don't wait for me, dear girlie,
Two may find me working yet.
(Quit that chuckling or you'll queer me.)
Make it earlier? I'll try.
But I doubt it—can you hear me?
(Hush, you crazy yaps)—good-by!

The Honorable Elk

The faults of our brothers we write on the sands;

Their virtues on tablets of love and memory.

I am not a jiner, but if I ever jine the jiners I will begin with the Elks and probably end there.

Without any special code or creed,
the Elks stand for a certain standard of intellect and ethics. The man with an Elk's tooth on his watch-chain, or the antlers in his buttonhole, has no quarrel with God. He accepts life, and finds it good. He may not be so very wise nor so very good, since he knows he is not wise, and is ready to admit he is not so very good, he is wiser than he knows and better than he will acknowledge. The true Elk does not condemn, disparage nor rip reputations up the back.

Realizing his own limitations, he is lenient in his judgments toward those who have been tempted by fate beyond their power to resist. This quality of mercy, I have noticed, is strongly implanted in the Elk nature. Your Elk never weeps over his own troubles, but for the stricken souls of earth his tears of pity are near the surface.

The Elk loves children, respects old age, and, so far as I have seen, doesn't incline especially toward indifference to feminine charms. In many instances I have imagined the Elk revealed a just appreciation of the elevated spheroid.
Yet in all your life you never saw one of these sorry sons of Elkdom going off alone and cutting into the grape—his irrigation is all in the line of good fellowship. And his worst fault lies right here—in this line of conviviality, he sometimes overdoes it.

But I believe this will hold: No little apology for a man ever joined the Elks—he wouldn't feel at home among them. To be an Elk you must have faith in other men, faith in yourself, and faith in the universe.

The Elks all look alike, and are all of one age. Just what that age is, I have not yet made out, but it lies somewhere between 30 and 50. No Elk ever is over 50, no matter how long he has lived, and none weighs over 200 pounds. They all have the jovous, boyish, bubbling heart of youth, and no whiskers. Lilies are out of their line, and Galways are tabooed.

I never saw an Elk who was very rich, excepting in kindness and good cheer, nor did I ever see one circumnavigating on his uppers. They all have all the money they need, even if not all they want. They make money, they spend it, and the more they spend the more they seem to make. "Keep the change" is a remark the Elk always has in electrotype.

I have been occasionally pained by hearing Elks relate stories that were slightly gamboze—tinged on the edges
—but although these tales of persi-flage had a Neufchatel flavor, yet there was always enough Attie salt supplied to redeem the mass from mortifying mortifying microbes.

The Elk is not troubled about saving his soul—in fact, he is not troubled about anything. Perhaps that is his one distinguishing feature—he does not worry, nor shake the red rag of worldly theological warfare. He believes that everything is all right—or nearly so—and that his task is to do his work, and not bother other folks any more than che has to. When Ali Baba said, "Blessed is the man who does not bellyake," he had a 16-pronged antlered Elk in mind.

An Elk takes his medicine—sometimes with a wry face—but he always takes his medicine. Often he overcomes temptation by succumbing to it;
and if he trips and falls he is up and joins in the laugh of the bystander.

You cannot down a man who can laugh at himself. The Elk stays right in the game; I never heard of one retiring from business; when Death calls for an Elk, the Elk is apt first to sell him a bill of goods, and then shake dice to see who will pay Charon's toll.
The Elk does not seek to pry into the future, for he realizes perfectly well that if he waits, he'll know all about it.

There seems to be little danger that this Fraternity will evolve into a religion. Most people take their religion seriously, but the Elk takes his with seltzer. He knows that truth is a point of view, that all is relative, that nothing is final nor absolute, nor can it be in a world where nothing is permanent but change. So the Elk's religion is Now and Here; to partake of all good things in moderation; to give out love and kindness because these things come back; and to supply a scrap only to the man who repeatedly asks for it, and will accept nothing else—this as a matter of accommodation.

To do good is the first prong in an Elk's creed. And he realizes, being wise, that the best way to benefit yourself is to benefit others.

As for myself, I am strictly etho st
As for myself, I am strictly on the hose-cart, so I do not affiliate very closely with the boys, but if I were flying light and wanted to borrow ten or twenty, maybe, I'd tackle the first Elk I met, without apology or explanation. All my needs would be to him a command, for he is not clannish and he knows no higher joy than to give the other fellow a lift.

And all these things I have here recorded are set down as a matter of truth, forgetting the fact that once at Flint, Mich., I suffered the deep humiliation of being arrested by the Elks and fined two seventy-five for advertising Quaker Oats without a license.

A NEW CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

At the earnest solicitation of Jim Turner and W. A. Zimmerman I have consented to come out as an unprin-ciple candidate for Mayor at any and all elections. My position on the water question is well known—I am utterly, absolutely and unqualifiedly opposed to even the water wagon. My qualifications are manifold. I can talk as long and as loud and can tell as many stories and say as little of importance as any member of the present City Council, while I will put my looks and taste in dress against any of them. My language is as select as Rev.
Wright's, as addled as H. D. Connell's, as forcible as Mayor Ey's, as manifold as Mit Phillips', as simple as Charley Kelley's, as copious as Clyde Bishop's and as senseless as Dr. Clark's off-hand opinions.

The new candidates will declare for a new deal. The old Council stands for a great deal (ay) and I believe in all kinds of deals. If elected I promise to exercise the same care in public expenditures as I do in my private affairs.

I shall pledge my support to the erection of a 23-story City Hall Building on the City Hall site. I also believe that we should have three bands to play on the streets in front of the Dragon, Dad Daly's Kitchen and the Bell Theater on each Saturday evening and that the city should serve beer and free lunch at all these concerts. I pledge myself in favor of the erection of a monument to S. J. Jackman to be placed on a float on the vacant lot at the corner of Second and Main streets.
I shall always vote for the asphaltting of all the streets. I think the salaries of the city employees should be doubled, that the city should buy seven more new fire engines and pay for the new automobile ordered by Chief Jernigan; for oriental rugs for City Clerk Burke and City Assessor Vegely; and dress suits for the Police Department and a flag of the new Chinese Republic for Ransom Reid.

As a guarantee that the amount paid out from my campaign expenses shall not exceed the Correct Practice at limitations, I am naming Geo. Peters and Henry Rutherford Campaign Managers.
The Democratic office boy won't sign any orders on either.

In conclusion I shall say that I shall shoot anyone who opposes me.

Yours respectfully,
"RED" IMES.

DIED DETESTED

Judge F. O. Daniels, one of the pioneer attorneys of Orange County and who is still a prominent member of the local bar, was in his younger days a probate judge in a certain Mississippi district. One day while seated in his office an elderly woman entered and the following conversation ensued:

"Are you the reprobate judge?" she inquired.

"Well, I am an attorney," was the response, "and I occasionally handle probate matters."

"Probably you can help me then.
My husband was studying to be a minister in a California cemetery, but he died detested. I hope you will be able to get me appointed as executioner of our three children."

Judge Daniels decided that the case was one which was out of his jurisdiction as a judge and a lawyer as well.

Stands for the "Best Place on Earth" to Buy Furniture

But you'll notice the Elks have adopted our initials for their slogan: "Best People on Earth." Well, we'll have to stand for it, as both are correct.

We All Have Our Ups and Downs

Whenever one of our customers wants to buy something "on tick" we always try to sell him one of our famous $10.75 Dreamland Mattresses. The "down" in these mattresses is finer than frog's hair and when you lie down on one of them you never want to get up—Yep, we have our ups and downs. A very little "down" will get you one of them.

There's No Hot Air in This Number

Baldwin Dry Air Refrigerators are the right kind for "dry towns." This is "the box with the steady cold wave." A very little congealed water, put in them from time to time, will keep their contents frappe.

No Elk can afford to be without one at $8.00, $10.50, $13.50 and up to $40.00.

You Can Beat the Game With This One

New Method gas ranges take a big slice off the gas company's "unearned increment," in fact, you save about 25 per cent on your gas bill. This is a straight tip, but don't go and put the gas man wise. Buy a New Method range and remember they are sold only by us, in Santa Ana.

WE COULD "PUT YOU NEXT" ON A LOT OF OTHER GOODS WE HANDLE IF YOU'LL COME IN AND GIVE US A CHANCE.

Some of Those Who Will Perpetrate

The following hints of what may be expected to happen are taken from the program which is now in course of construction—destruction will follow later. It will be readily observed that it embraces the largest caste ever appearing on a Santa Ana stage, and even then our limited space permits enumerating only a small number of the attractions.

CAN YOU BEAT THEM?

(If you can, don't—at least not until after the show.)

"Doc" Barnes will take you in with the rousing end song, "Smile, Simply Smile." This is one of the songs written by Neil O'Brien, that was sung by him in Dockstader's Minstrels and helped to make the reputation of its author. Barnes has some good local verses and some prominent men in town may find some nice juicy lemons thrown over the footlights in their direction.

The ladies will not be roasted in this show as Director Wilson thinks that there is enough on the men of Santa Ana to make good natured laughs without bothering the women. "Doc's" wife is going to use this face for a fly-catcher when he is through with it in the Minstrels.

THE TOOTHLESS TRIO

Reynolds, Patten and Rossiter. Nerve-racking sensation of the evening entitled "Putting on the Golden Crown." (The audience always screams during this act.)

Hugh Lowe

Clothier, Capitalist and Booster. Sent direct from the "City of Grief," will sing "Songs Without Words," in five different languages without changing his suspenders.

W. L. Kreuscher

Will sing an oily ballad, "What right has a Man with Whiskers to Put Butter on His Green Corn?" (No razors or horse clippers admitted.)

Leon Titchenal

In his death-defying sketch, entitled "Two Can Live as Cheap as One." Notice how pale and emaciated he looks.

O. K. Forgy

The Coca Cola Tenor, imported direct from Indianny, be-gosh! His voice drives women to tears and strong men to drink.

R. M. Brinkerhoff

Will sing that bad smelling ballad entitled "Oh, You Motorcycle."

Husky Young and W. A. Huff

The Sultan's Favorite Premier Danceses, who will dance the "Soul Kiss," dressed in sheath gowns. (For the comfort of all squeamish persons present, we wish to state that City Marshal Sam Jernigan has been "fixed" and there will be no occasion to get nervous during this performance.)

William F. Menton, Alias Bill Menton, Alias "The Old Woman."

Chesterfieldian interlocutor, who has been successful for his high dramatic rating, will keep his hat removed during the first part and present for inspection his new skating rink for flies.

A. W. Rutan, H. J. Forgy and Homer Ames

In a sorrowful, amputating, side-splitting farce entitled "When We Are Through Treating You, You'll Have No Complaint."

Jim Livesey

The original "skirt fever" kid, will render that familiar ballad, "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star, How I wonder Whose You Are."

George Edgar

In his lightning change act, "Gray or Bald," introducing that beautiful hair-raising ballad, "We Will Never Miss the Tonic Till the Hair's All Gone."

Dr. Dobson

The Adonis, presents himself as the best shaped man in Santa Ana.

George S. Smith

The Greatest of Basso Profundos, will sing "Go As Far As You Like, But I Will Get You in the Finish."

Dr. John I. Clark

The "Cascara Basso." He sings while you sleep.

W. L. Deimling, Wallbridge and Leihy

The Legerdemains, in their mysterious, Oriental and combo Asiatic European, Americano mysticism, "A Touch in the Dark." Occasional "light" music by the Edison Electric Company.

Hike Connell

Absolutely refuses to talk, but stick around; he might say something.

Hugh Plumb

In his original "Honk Honk" Song: "If You Haven't Got No Auto, Why You Needn't Come Around."

Mills and Winbigler

Are down on the program for a song entitled, "Funeral Bells." As an encore they will sing, "How I Love a Dead One," written especially for them by Johnnie Carlyle, late of Tombstone, Ariz.

Scott and Carden

In an original monologue entitled, "How I Sell Real Estate," or "I Hope to Land the Deal Soon."

Robert Cavanaugh

(The Gas Shark.) A single handed monologue entitled "What Will I Do When I Met. er Now."

Fred Ross and Charles Davis

A duet in E Minor, a bad-smelling ballad entitled "Oh, Where Is My Gasoline?" (Six-Cylinder accompaniment.)

H. E. W. Barnes (this is the young one, not the old man) will render in a cold storage voice, "Put Me in My Little Bed With Some Cracked Ice Upon My Head."

Joe Parsons and His Friend, Tarver Montgomery

Will sing a song in Barber Shop Harmony. (Cutting in on any part of this act is strictly prohibited by the Board of Health.)

The World's Greatest Aviators:

Fred Chapman and Joe Burke

both have been in the air for a week but are expected to land in time to render that soul inspiring ballad, "I Should Worry Like a Checker Board and Have to Move."

Notice Extraordinary

Cavanaugh, Newcomb, Plumb, Peterson, Carden and McIntyre will render, and can that famous "Floradora Sextette." Nan Patterson and Evelyn Thaw have been head liners ever since they tried it. No telling what will become of this bunch.

Phillips, Miles, Chapman and Wilson

The above is a quartette. The reason—this is the easiest way to refer to a bunch of four. Be careful, people, these fellows might have some relatives (or friends) in the audience.

McCamey and Gardner

This duo have not been permitted to practice. As the only instrument that their voices will harmonize with is the base drum, we are saving them until the final evening.

Frank Remsberg and Parke Roper

Will appear before the audience in Highland costume and entertain in high class acrobatic stunts.

HIKE CONNELL

will be muzzled or gagged, so he won't do all the talking. This is an extra stunt.

PAUL KNAUF

has been expressly coaxed to dance the Highland Fling to that beautiful creation, "You'll never miss the Diamond moon 'till it turns up in the barn."

PROF. McCORMAC

has specially composed an Elks' song entitled, "Mary's Little Lamb Ain't in It with Schedule K."

RAY MILES will do the singing.

JOE BURKE

will give a special political address, dwelling primarily on "Woman Suffrage."

PARODY ON "I REMEMBER YOU."

By James Madison

When I smoke a cigarette I sigh, Thinking of the days that have passed by,

Mem'ry lifts for me the veil of years, Bringing back both scenes of joy and some of tears;

Right through life I'll always hold them fast, Though the clock ne'er strikes again the hour that has passed;

Just here in my pocket, Mementoes I've a few, And with your kind attention I will show them onw to you.

(Takes lemon out of pocket.)

I remember you, Yes, indeed, I do; Here's what I was handed, With a show that since has tranded When I acted Shakespeare back in eighteen ninety-two.

I said with much force, "My kingdom for a horse," But some chump who was no gen'man Went and soaked me with this lemon.

I remember you, (Takes ladies' garter out of pocket.) I remember you, Dainty clasp of blue, Picked it up while walking (winks at audience),

Although no amount of talking, Would convince my wife that to her I was not untrue;

She said, "I won't speak To you for one week;" All day long I now do rubber, Hoping I will find another.

I remember you, (Takes dollar bill out of his pocket.) I remember you, Man's best friend, that's true, It's what we all try for,

'Cause without it we're a cypher, And that goes for all mankind. Whether Gentle or Jew, Why do girls leave home,

And do the Salome, Why do I stand here and holler? It's to get the mighty dollar.

I remember you.

ORIGIN AND HISTORY OF THE ORDER OF ELKS

First Lodge Organized in New York City in 1867 by An Englishman and Was Called the Jolly Corks—Now
Over 300,000 Members

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was first organized in 1867 and was started by a few jolly fellows who wanted to enjoy life first and attend to business afterward.
They held their initial meeting in New York and called themselves the Jolly Corks. This name must have been selected because of the fact that several of the originators were members of that branch of the theatrical profession devoted to minstrelsy. But soon after the Jolly Corks had organized themselves into a society they decided to broaden its scope and have for an ideal a higher aim than just a good time. A universal brotherhood was the prime object of the reorganized society and the name was changed to the one it now bears.

From a little company of good fellows the order has grown until it embraces lodges in more than 350 of the principal towns and cities of the United States.

From a small gathering of men who were holding out a helping hand to one another the order has grown until there are more than $200,000 in possession of the Grand Lodge that is held in reserve.

Money Was Returned

Some idea of the magnitude of the order and of the class of men who are on its roll of membership may be gained from an incident connected with the terrible earthquake at San Francisco.

When the news was first flashed over the country the Grand Lodge of Elks ordered a check for $10,000 sent to the San Francisco lodge. This was followed up with donations from every lodge in the country. Soon after this,
and while cries of grief were shocking
the country in connection with the relief of the sufferers, every check was returned by the San Francisco Elks.
Not one cent was taken by that lodge and not a man who was a member of the Elks accepted a cent from any outside source. The money that had been sent by the Grand Lodge and all of the subordinate lodges was returned.

A Remarkable Record

San Francisco Lodge took care of its members and though the city was almost totally destroyed, not an Elk in that territory had to call on the outside world for help.

When Messina was laid waste by an earthquake, the Grand Lodge of Elks sent $5,000 to the sufferers.
There was never any publicity given to these donations and the world would not have known about them had they gained circulation through the regular course of business.

Brotherly love and justice go hand in hand with charity, and one cannot exist without the other, so those three items are the cardinal points of Elkdom. There have been many stories told of how the order was originated, but the man perhaps who is most responsible for it and who suggested the brotherly love feature was Charles Algernon Sidney Vivian, an Englishman. It may seem strange that an Englishman should have been the founder of a strictly American order, but it is true nevertheless.

A Universal Brotherhood

Vivian was a vaudeville performer and dreamed night and day of the time when all mankind would live and have its being in a universal brotherhood where love and charity would predominate.

It was this man who shaped in a great measure the future of the order, and to this day it is following out largely his ideas. The name, however, was not of his selection. Vivian favored giving the order the name of Buffalo, because he had been a member of an order in England of that name.

At that time there were 16 members of the order, and the vote was a close one, the Elks winning by a majority of one.

Meetings were held in the parlors of a boarding house that was very popular with musicians and other jolly fellows. The order soon outgrew this meeting place and new quarters were secured. Then it was that the Elks broadened in scope and men from all walks of life began making application for membership.

There were at various times discussion regarding the name of the organization, and the members who favored the continuance of the one adopted made an investigation of the character of the animal whose name had been chosen.

A Magnificent Animal

In Buffoon's natural history, which was found in a library of Cooper Institute, much information regarding the elk was obtained. Here it was said that the animal would not fight except in defense of the female, when attacked by an enemy, or for the helpless, the wounded and the young of his herd. It was also said he was timid regarding wrongdoing, but was brave when aroused. These researches served to solidify the defenders of the title, and it remained undisturbed in after years.

Vivian never lived to see the order of Elks grow to the great society that it soon became, for he died in Leadville, Colo., March 20, 1880. His remains were interred there, but later were brought to Boston, and now he rests in the Elks' plot of Mt. Hope cemetery in that city, his grave being marked with a handsome monument erected by the order.

An effort was made during the early years of the order to confine its membership to the theatrical profession,
but this met with instant opposition, and for a time bid fair to precipitate
a bitter factional fight.

The spirit of brotherly love, however, on which the order was founded, finally prevailed, and peace was declared.

The 11 O'clock Toast

There has been much speculation regarding the 11 o'clock toast of the Elks, but little has been known regarding it.

This feature originated in 1868, when, just as the New York lodge was about to adjourn, George McDonald, one of the original members of the order, suggested a "toast to our absent brothers."

From that came the 11 o'clock toast and, the world over, all Elks are supposed to give just a moment of thought to the absent brother at that hour. This little tribute to the departed is one of the most beautiful things connected with Elkdom.

Lodge of Sorrow

Two years after the adoption of the 11 o'clock toast the Lodge of Sorrow was created, and each year since then each lodge has paid loving tribute to those brothers who have been called into the great beyond. At these meetings appropriate addresses are made and ceremonies that befit the occasion are held.

At all these meetings the names of absent brothers are called by the secretary, for no man claimed by death is ever forgotten by his lodge.

There has been an impression among some not fully familiar with the order that this tribute is paid only to those who have departed during the year. This, however, is a mistake, as all names are called and all are given that same mark of respect.

Keep Open House

The Elks have a feature that no other order in the world possesses. It is the open house. Go where you will, if there is a lodge of Elks where you stop the open door will be found.

There also will you find a brother
if you are an Elk, ready to receive you and if needs be to minister to your wants.

Every lodge of Elks has a secretary, whose duty is to remain at the home for the sole purpose of receiving and entertaining those who may call.

It makes no difference to what lodge you may belong, just so you are an Elk, you are welcome. The man who is a member of the 'Frisco lodge is just as much at home, has just as many rights in the lodge room of the New York Elks as the man who has lived in the metropolis all his life.

There is no distinction, no difference made. A member of the Manila lodge will be just as much at ease and be just as welcome in Little Rock and be given just as much attention and privilege as he would be accorded in his own town.

The "Hello Bill"

The "Hello Bill" of the Elks is the only introduction needed where two or more of them meet. That salutation has no place in the ritual of the order, it is true, but it has been adopted by universal consent. It is the open sesame of goodfellowship.

It is the guarantee that goes with a good nature, a clear conscience, an open purse and a kind heart.

If you are not an Elk you are missing the best things on earth; you are not getting what is coming to you and you are losing an opportunity to do good that if accepted will make you live longer, feel better and laugh more.—Walter Taylor, in Atlantic

ELKDOM EXTENDS ITS ARMS

Did you who are not an Elk, ever seriously consider the worth of the Elk lodge, ever think over or even wonder what good the order did that was worth while—did you?

If you never did, remember that it is never too late to do good. There is an old axiom that says something about still water running deep and it is this way the Elks do the good that shall live after them. There is no organization in existence, of a fraternal character, that makes less of its charitable work or does more than the order of Elks. Every New Year or Christmas, each Elk of the United States contributes toward charity. The money is given voluntarily, for all Elks understand that that is their annual contribution to the poor they will have always with them, and out of the fullness of their own blessings and prosperity they give to those less fortunate.

Once each year during the holiday season, when the poor are most in need, hundreds of baskets brimming with substantial foods and an assortment of good things of a dainty sort are distributed among the poor of Santa Ana. Poor committees appointed among the lodge members, among the police department and local charity organizations, go out into the byways and hedges and secure a list of the most deserving poor and this list is turned into the Elks where another committee makes out name and address slips and attaches them to the baskets ready for delivery. In this way the food is given to those who are ill, or lame, or blind, or just naturally poor and unable to do anything for themselves. Unfortunate mothers with little children are thus enabled to give their babies a Christmas or New Year treat, a real meal such as the mothers themselves probably knew when they were little girls and had happy and comfortable homes.

This is one way in which the fraternity scatters good cheer where good cheer is so sadly lacking. The Elk is of that type of humanity always ready to extend a helping hand where succor is needed; always ready to cheer the despondent and soothe the afflicted. He may not be an angel as angels are reckoned in this sordid old world, but he does it without asking for praise, or that lime light of publicity be turned on his actions. Vive le Elk!

ONLY A DREAM

Judge F. O. Daniel walked into the office of County Superintendent of Schools Mitchell this morning with his usual pleasing smile increased a thousandfold.

"Professor," said the judge, "I never was so pleased in my life."

"How so?" said the professor.

"Well, when I walked into the Superior Court room last night I beheld a shining new polished floor, new rugs, a brass railing, opera chairs, electric lights and the walls beautifully tinted. Painted roof. And I was about to fall upon my knees and thank the supervisors. Just then I awoke."

Ge them ready for to grow,
And the grass holds out a promise
That 'twill soon be time to mo.
When all the little birdies
Start ecstatically to sing
You can bet a Lincoln penny
That it's dern near spring.

When the jam in mother's cupboard Shows up few and far between,
And when dad begins to patching
Up the rusty front old screen,
When the dogs start in howling
And the cats unite to sing,
You can bet a twisted fried cake
That it's dern near spring.

Go to the Elks' Minstrel Show and you will be glad all your life.

PERSONALS

Russell Scott is about the biggest "around" Elk in town, but there are a number that have him skinned for "up and down" bigness.

Mit Phillips is considerable of an Elk, even if he doesn't work at it—come to think of it, what does Mit work at?

Exalted Ruler Menton, recently elected to that office, held the chair down for the first time last Tuesday night. He was in splendid voice and delivered his talks somewhat loudly. In a peroration requiring great emphasis he concluded with these words "The question is, what will you take?" This aroused a slumbering brother long enough for him to petulantly and drowsily exclaim: "Aw! gimme the same."

Impresario Franchino Rensberger is responsible for the selection of the Elks' Minstrels so-low-ists. If the singing don't suit you, soak Frank, but let the poor singers live; they're doing their best.

Judge Willson has volunteered to carry water to the Elks in exchange for his admission tickets to the Elks' Big Minstrels. Judge says it won't take much water because Elks don't drink much.

Charlie Kelley is an Elk, but sells drugs as a side line.

The Scream overlooked an item about Bob Shafer going to Anaheim, but as Bob did not go to Anaheim the failure to mention ought not to be held against us.

Brother Butman of Redlands Lodge No. 583 who has been living at the Elks' Home for the past month, is a sort of silent partner of the Minstrel show, lending dignity to the practice. When the boisterous boys spy his Van Dyke peeking through the door they immediately get busy.

W. C. Butman for the past two weeks has been working as Jack Taylor's deputy in policing the Elks' Home. Jack chose him because of the fact that he was a representative of the Gibraltar Investment and Home Building Co., and the name appealed to him. He says Brother Butman stands like a rock at the door of the rehearsal room and when any Elk tries to sneak from Minstrel rehearsal he flashes an investment contract in his face and that scares him back.

Ernest Madden really isn't grouchy, he just looks that way.

[FRANK DUMONT]

The first minstrel troupe appeared in public January 31, 1842. They appeared for the benefit of one of their number, Dick Pelham. The troupe comprised just four—Dan Emmett, the author of "Dixie;" Frank Brower Bones, dancer and comedian; Billy Whitlock, banjoist and dancer, and R. W. Pelham (Dick), who played the tambourine and danced also. The four had been connected with circus companies—introducing dancing and negro songs in the ring, and meeting in the winter of 1843, they conceived the idea of merging their talents for the benefit of their brother performer, Dick Pelham, who was appearing between the acts in the National Theater, Chatham street, near Roosevelt, afterwards known as Purdy's National Theater. Previous to this, individual singers of negro songs had appeared, notably "Daddy" Rice, who sang "Jump Jim Crow," and from whom the seag store figures "Jim Crow" and at present the "Jim Crow" cars of the South got their name, and are still reminders of that great and popular exponent of negro songs and dances. But it remained for Emmett, Brower, Whitlock and Pelham to organize and present the very first minstrel troupe in the world. I have the program of this initial performance (perhaps the only one in existence) and the songs and dances it contains are of the plantation variety entirely, viz: "Such a Gettin' Up Stairs," "My Old Aunt Sally," "Gwine Over de Mountains," "Old Dan Tucker," "I Wish I Was in Old Virginia," "Dance de Boatmen Dance." Then a trial breakdown or a jig dance enlivened the bill, and a banjo solo such as the "Coon Hunt," "Buffalo Gals, Are You Coming Out Tonight?" or "Jordan Am a Hard Road to Travel." This made up a bill which probably lasted a half hour. The novelty was so pronounced and so successful that the four, who called themselves the "Virginia Minstrels," appeared the night following at the Bowery Amphitheater, which was located about where the Windsor Theater is situated, nearly opposite the old Bowery Theater. The four went on a short tour as far as Boston and sailed for England, where they took London by storm.

Meanwhile other negro performers or "Negro Singers," as they were then called, formed bands, and the minstrel troupes began to multiply and flourish. One of the earliest was the "Congo Minstrels," organized by the Buckleys, father and three sons, Bishop, Fred and Swaine. They were very talented and thorough musicians. They were the first to harmonize the negro melodies and songs. Several years afterwards they travelled under the name of "Buckley's Serenaders." Fred Buckley was a composer of note. He was the author of nearly all of the popular songs of his day. He was the first to introduce an instrument of great compass and sweetness. In shape it resembled a guitar, with 84 keys in its handle connecting to steel reeds in the body of the instrument. This instrument is now in my possession. About the time the Buckleys began to attract attention a banjoist by the name of E. P. Christy organized a small troupe in Buffalo. This was about 1845 or 1846. They did not at first call themselves the "Christy Minstrels," but a year afterwards their bills announced "Christy's Minstrels."

A wonderful genius by the name of George Harrington was with this troupe. He afterwards became famous as George Christy. This troupe appeared about 1846 at the Society Library rooms, New York, and next at Palmo's Opera House, Chambers street, near Broadway.

Christy retired wealthy, but at the beginning of the war, 1861, he began to fear the loss of his money and securities, and in a moment of dementia hurled himself from an upper window. He lived but a short time afterwards, and died, universally regretted. He was the greatest actor, dancer, singer and burlesque artist of his time, and is ever mentioned in connection with minstrelsy.

Ramsey and Newcomb, also the Campbells Minstrels flourished for a decade before the war. All the minstrels of note were with these troupes: Jerry Bryant, W. W. Newcomb, Frank Brower, Eph. Horn, Matt. Peel, Luke West, Sam Wells, Dave Wambold, Pony Moore, Fred Wilson, Tim Noron, Billy Birch, Ben Cotton, John Mulligan, Dave Reed, J. R. Thomas, the composer; Hughey Dougherty, Paul Bergen, M. Ainsley Scott, Billy Arlington, Kelly and Leon, R. M. Hooley, C. W. H. Griffin, Cool White, S. S. Sanford, Archie Hughes and others.

Wood's Minstrels began at 444 Broadway about 1851, succeeding Fellows' Minstrels. Charley White had a Minstrel hall at 53 Bowery, where all the famous minstrels appeared. Sam Sharpley and Ben Cotton were located at 514 Broadway. The Bryant's Minstrels opened 472 Broadway on February 23, 1857, and remained there many years before going up to Tammany Hall (Pastor's Theater). Dan Emmett wrote "Dixie" for a walk around in 1859. During the Civil War the Confederates took the song as a "war hymn." One line in it made it dear to the Southern heart, "In Dixie-land I'll take my stand to live and die in Dixie." The great singers of the Bryant's were Tom Pendergast, Dave Wambold, Jules Stratton, C. C. Templeton, S. C. Campbell, J. W. Hilton, Napoleon W. Gould, Ainley Scott, Frank Leslie, Charles Henry, W. P. Grier, Master Adams, Rollin Howdrd, etc.

It is strange to look back over the old collection of songs and see the evolution both in minstrelsy and the style of ballad long before the war. Such songs as "Cottage by the Sea," "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother," "Old Dog Tray," "Belle Brandon," "Willie, We Have Missed You," "Rosalie the Prairie Flower," "Bonnie Eloise the Belle of the Mohawk Vale," "Annie Lisle," "Annie of the Vale," "Nellie Gray," "Nellie Was a Lady," "Nancy Till," etc., were great and popular songs. Then came the war, with its ballads, "When This Cruel War Is Over," "Mother Kissed Me in My Dream," "Brother Fainting at the Door," "Tramp, Tramp," "Rally Round the Flag," "Tenting Tonight" and "Babylon Is Fallen." Then came another change, in which the titles of songs were about a sweetheart's name, and she invariably died in the second verse. Then came a swarm of "Mother Songs" all about Mother. But one song was written about father, and that was called "Come Home Father," and, as Billy Birch used to say, "they had to get the old man drunk before he would go home."

Kelly and Leon's Minstrels were at 720 Broadway for quite a while, beginning about 1866 or 1867. Birch, Wambold, Bernard and Backus opened 585 Broadway in April, 1865, and became the most popular troupe ever located in New York. They continued popular as ever up to 1883. In this troupe were some of the greatest singers and comedians in the world. Billy Birch, Charley Beekus, Dave Wambold, George Thatcher, Billy Sweetman, Bob Slavin, Johnson & Powers, Edwin French, T. B. Dixon, J. P. Whitmark, Arthur Cook, C. F. Shuttuck, W. H. Frillman, Frank Wilson, Harry Roe, W. S. Mullaly, Frank Dumont, Harry Kennedy, Harry Richmond, Stanley Grey, J. M. Woods, Beaumont Read, A. C. Moreland, and a host of talent, including Schoolcraft and Coes, Frank Cushman, the Only Leon, the Big Four, and Ricardo were members. The early minstrels appeared in striped pants, checked shirts, and sometimes wore straw hats intending to represent plantation darkies. Later on they appeared in evening dress and announced themselves as "Dandy Darkies of the North." This portion is the one now retained as the first part in minstrelsy. Ordway's Minstrels were located in Boston from 1849 to about 1860. Fred Wilson was the first to introduce a clog dance in minstrelsy. With them was Gilmore's Band; P. C. Gilmore playing the tambourine. Then the Morris Brothers were their successors. The first to wear the full evening dress, swallowtail coats, white vests and black pants were Dumbolton's Serenaders, who flourished from 1845 to 1850. Jerry Bryant and Matt Peel were members of this company.

When E. P. Christy went to England the name survived, it being applied to any and all minstrels; our English cousins calling them "Christies."

In later days we have had some very popular minstrel companies, the progenitors of these companies have brought modern minstrelsy up to a very high plane, and have yet retained all of its original charm.

Among the most notable of these are Al. G. Fields Minstrels, a popular organization known from coast to coast as the exponent of all that is best in minstrelsy; Haverly's Minstrels (everybody knew and loved Col. Jack Haverly, whose famous "forty, count 'em," is known wherever minstrels have played); Lew Dockstader's Minstrels, headed by Lew Dockstader, whose personal magnetism was wonderful, and who stands at the front in humorous monologue and coon songs; McNish, Johnson & Slavin's Minstrels; Barlow, Wilson, Primrose & West's, which later became Thatcher, Primrose & West's, then Thatcher withdrew to give us his Minstrel Novelty "Tuxedo" of pleasant memory, and Primrose & West minstrels continued together under that title; then Primrose's Minstrels, with George Primrose at their head, and West's Minstrels, New Orleans Minstrels, Gorman Brothers' Minstrels, Vogel's Minstrels, Gus Sun's Minstrels, Richards & Pringles, Kersands Minstrels, Dandy Dixie Minstrels and many others have been continually before the public.

For permanent minstrels New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and London claim the honor of long continued runs.

In New York the San Francisco Minstrels had an uninterrupted course of prosperity and fun for many years. In San Francisco Billy Emerson's Minstrels played a long continued engagement. In London a theater that could boast of not closing its doors for 28 years on this favorite form of amusement. Here the famous Moore & Burgess Minstrels held forth. In Philadelphia Sam Cartee leased the Eleventh Street Opera House and opened it on December 4, 1854, with the "Julien Serenaders" or Minstrels. Then came Sandford's Minstrels, and in 1862 Carncross and Dixey and their minstrels opened there, and continued until about fifteen years ago, when the famous old home of minstrelsy passed under my control, and here "Dumont's Minstrels" hold forth nightly.

Some of my singers and comedians have been with me ten years or more, and from this stage graduated Chauncey Olcott, Eddie Foy, Jack Raffael, John C. Rice, George Frothingham, Dohy Brothers, Lew Dockstader, Carroll Johnson, Press Eldridge, Weber and Fields, W. P. Sweatman and many, many others, some of whom have long since been "gathered unto their fathers," while others are still spreading their gospel of sunshine.

The institution of minstrelsy is upon a firmer footing today than ever before, and many thousands of dollars are expended for the scenery, costumes and electrical effects, which give it its present grand spectacular setting and which tend to make it more popular than ever.

"Typical Chants Sung by Negroes"

No race is more governed by superstition in the world than the negroes; his life is filled with fatal periods and unlucky days, and his nights are haunted with visions of witches, elves and demons.

Among the negroes who are far removed from civilization, the chief religious consolation is a most intense form of voodooism or devil worship. It is practiced chiefly by the flinkey-haired, low-browed, almost chinless negro, who delights in being frightened and whose belief in a personal devil acts upon him much in the same manner as soothing syrup does upon a child. This belief is hereditary, descended through countless generations from the time when the negro tribes from which the darkey is descended, worshipped Mumbo Jumbo in the depths of the African forests.

His faith, if you can call a heathenish belief such, is governed by what might be termed a cult of superstition with which every negro is enveloped when he is projected into the world.

The negroes have a tradition that their forbears were visited a thousand years ago by a great and holy man called Christ, who abode with them in the depths of the African forests for many years. This could not be anyone else save St. Chrysostom, who, tradition states, visited the coast and interior of Liberia. Whether the saintly qualities of St. Chrysostom were ever preached to the benighted negro by the early missionaries or whether the saint himself visited the country of the Liberians the fact remains, and it is a rather strange one at that, that St. Chrysostom was the first saint to give credence to superstition. St. Chrysostom declared "The people suspect everything and are more in bondage than if they were slaves many times over. This or that man was first to meet me when I walked out, therefore I'll humbly will befall me, my servant handed me my left shoe first; this indicates dire calamities. I started out left foot first—a sign of misfortune. My right eye twitched on issuing forth for a walk; this portends tears. The braying of a donkey, a sudden sneeze, the crowing of a cock, all indicate something." All of these signs alluded to by St. Chrysostom are taken by the negro as ill omens, but he adds to the category, "The dire misfortunes that follow in the wake of a black cat crossing his path and the negro has also a dread of hares. In fact, the hare is looked upon by the Southern negro as the devil's habinger or lepus, and in some parts of the remote glades of Florida the darkeys switch the bushes to warn the hares away, believing them to be vehicles for imps and demons. But the rabbit's foot has ever been an omen of unwonted prosperity. A darkey of the type of which I speak, will also chase and kill the hen that crows, which is considered a sign of bad luck and the indication of the assumption by a female of masculine prerogatives.

Then again, an over-exuberance of enthusiasm at a revival meeting results often in a religious frenzy which exceeds all bounds of ordinary understanding and sometimes common decency, and which changes to positive devil worship. In the cotton fields of the "low grounds" and the tobacco patches of the "new ground" remote from civilization, religious orgies are to be occasionally witnessed where the hymns sung under the direction or leadership of some itinerant darkey revivalists have been transposed to meet the requirements of the devil dancers.

And nothing is more devilishly fearsome than to see from forty to fifty white-haired darkeys cakewalk around a bright forest fire chanting weird songs to the twang of improvised banjos or tom toms, and the clasp of polished rib bones. From an old voodoo doctor I secured a copy of some of the devil worshippers' chants, as follows: "O, de debbel's got his eye on de sinner."

Look for the breakin' ob de day, Ebery day he has one for his dinner, Look for the breakin' ob de day."

One of their most delectable chants goes like this:

"How dye do, old Uncle Nick, G' me a swaller ob hot lead, quick Soak me good in bilin' ile,

An' smooch me off wid a red hot file!"

These devil worship songs or chants are marrow-freezing as they strike upon the ear while the eye of the concealed observer dilates with horror as the gyrations and constrictions of the dancers are followed. When the frenzy dies down the women, who have discreetly remained in the background cooking a mess in a large pot, start together a shrill chorus to the twang of rib bones and which runs: "Houn' dog in de dinner pot, Lick, lick, lick, Chicken in de bread tray, Pick, pick, pick."

It is a long jump from the songs of the voodoo followers to the plaintive folk songs of the Southland. I will tell something of the real poetic side of the darkey.

I remember an old negro mammy telling me that all her songs were so filled with what she described as "de holy spirit" that she forgot she was working if she just kept singing; all the time she made her songs up on the spur of the moment, and it is a fact that the great soul and heart stirring music of the negro was brought from Africa in the slave ships.

One old gray-haired darkey who had been born and reared in slavery told me that their hymns were spontaneous, in fact he said to me, "Marso Sanborn, us old heads used to make 'em up on the spur of de moment, after we'd wrestled wid de spirit an' come throo, but de tunes was brung frum Africky by our granddaddies. Dey is just milliar (merely ear) songs. Dese days dey call 'em ballads, but in de ole days dey call 'em sperituaes, kose de holy spirit done teachd 'em der old time negro custims."

The negro, by some mysterious power does not take a breath at the end of a line or verse, but carries over his breath from line to line and from verse to verse at the imminent risk of bursting a blood vessel. He holds on to one note until he has a firm hold on the next one, and then besides, he turns every monosyllable word into two syllables, and places the accent where it does not belong, on the last half of the word.

A marked peculiarity of the negro singing is that very often in the heat of their religious fervor, they will repeat again and again the same verses. This is because they are carried away by the potent spell which each song casts over one and all.

PARODY ON "I'D RATHER TWO-STEP THAN WALTZ, BILL."
By James Madison

I'll sing you of some dances that were famous in their day,
Such as the bomb-a-shay,
And La Palome so gay,
And for a time the can-can really had an awful sway,
Till Doctor Parkhurst from the stage made us take it away.
For weeks I've tried to get some dancers for my burlesque show,
But ev'ry where I'd go,
The word I got was "no."
I told one dancer who was nifty Ev'ry weed I'd pay her fifty,
But her answer didn't come back slow:

CHORUS

I'd rather Koochee than waltz, Bill,
I'd rather Koochee than eat;
Put on Salome, Bill,
Or chase back home, Bill,
I'll give a wiggle,
That will make folks all wriggle,
Though I wear neither stockings nor shoes, Bill,
Ministers dare not find fault,
Show-men are smart,
They declare it's high art,
So I'd rather koochee than waltz.

Is it good manners to kiss a young unmarried lady in your wife's presence?

It is good manners, but not good judgment.
